NAZI ARMY TAKES OVER SOFIA

STATE LIBRARY OF MASSACHUSETTS MAR 3 - 1941 STATE HOUSE BOSTON

Beverly and Her Rescuer—Beverly Kirk, 7, of Wollaston, snuggles in the arms of Charles Rich, 18, of Lynn, first to reach her after she had been lost in deep Lynn woods 16 hours. Plucky child was found two-and-a-half miles from North Saugus home of relatives she was visiting. Only apparent injury is frost-bitten right toe. (Story, Other Pictures on Page 3.)

NAZI ARMIES INVADE SOFIA

WAR . . . AS RECORDED ON NAZI FILM—In a scene from "Victory in the West," a Nazi film record of their campaign in the low countries and in France last summer, a German gun crew is pictured under fire by either French or British artillery. The above scene, one of the best war photographs to reach America, shows a shrapnel shell bursting just ahead of the gun shield . . . just a little too close for comfort for these Nazi gunners.

By ROBERT S. JOHN

SOFIA, Bulgaria, March 1 (AP)—Germany poured her army into Bulgaria by panzer division and transport plane today, occupying this capital en masse almost before the ink was dry on the Bulgarian signature to the Berlin-Rome-Tokyo alliance.

Britain's minister, George Rendel, made a final appointment with King Boris this evening to tell him that Britain has no choice but to break off relations with Bulgaria.

A British declaration of war on Bulgaria and RAF bombs on German communications lines within the country already had been predicted by the minister—in the event of just such an occurrence as that of today.

The first German armored cars rolled into the heart of the capital two hours after Bulgaria's premier, Bogdan Philoff, had signed at Vienna the document which aligns Bulgaria for the second time in a quarter century with a warring Germany.

NAZIS IN FULL BATTLE GARB

As darkness fell, the German mechanized columns still were thundering down the streets in increasing numbers and huge Junkers transport planes packed with troops were coming down methodically at the Sofia airdrome.

The soldiers were in battle dress.

They wore steel helmets and complete regulation battle kit and reached the center of this capital late in the day.

The Germans carried rifles, gas masks and heavy packs of battle gear. Carloads of them rolled through the main streets and passed the German legation.

Swarms of German fighter planes winged over the city, circling low enough for the cross and swastika markings to be plainly seen.

As soon s the first Nazi troop cars arrived, many German firms unfurled swastika flags.

Police began to clear the main avenues of approach, indicating that heavy troop transport was outside the city.

The British legation staff still was in Sofia.

Rendel and his aides hastened arrangements for their departure.

NAZIS OCCUPY PORT

Soon after the German troops reached the heart of the capital, Bulgarian official sources said Varna, strategic Bulgarian Black Sea port, was being occupied by the Nazis.

The military occupation must have begun at dawn, with the crossing of the Danube.

For weeks the Germans have been constructing pontoon bridges there.

They were in Sofia, as it happened, before many Bulgarians had learned that their country had signed the Axis pact.

After what had happened in a few hours today, Britain had no choice but to break off relations with Bulgaria, and it was expected that Minister Rendel would so inform King Boris.

WAIT BRITISH BOMBS

Rendel has already said Britain probably would declare war on Bulgaria and bomb Nazi communication lines if German troops were allowed to occupy the country.

Now, high British quarters said, he is waiting only the formal approval of London to rupture diplomatic relations with Bulgaria.

Bulgarian soldiers newly called to the colors meanwhile left the capital for frontier posts in large units as the nation rapidly approached general mobilization.

Earlier there had been no indication Sofia expected anything but an ordinary working day. At daybreak observers were surprised to find no foreign troops, although there were creditable advices then that 16 truckloads of Nazi soldiers had entered the country at Varna.

TAFT, WHEELER CHARGE AID BILL CAN MERGE U. S., BRITISH FLEETS

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP)—Senators Taft (R.) of Ohio and Wheeler (D.) of Montana asserted in the Senate today the pending British aid bill would give President Roosevelt power to consolidate the American fleet with that of Great Britain in both Mediterranean and Far Eastern waters.

During a lengthy address by Wheeler, Taft interrupted to assert:

"If this bill is passed, there is no reason why the President would not be justified in sending the fleet either to Gibraltar or Singapore and consolidate it with the British fleet.

"It might not be actively engaged in shooting, but when the British lost a ship, they could take one from the American fleet to replace it," Taft added. Wheeler assented.

Earlier, Wheeler had told the Senate the time was "not far distant" when the President should use his high office in an attempt to bring about peace in Europe.

The Montanan interrupted an attack he had launched on the Administration's aid bill to assert the President "still is in a position where he could exercise the powers he has to bring about a just peace, dictated by the United States."

Wheeler, taking the floor at the opening of the twelfth day of debate on the bill, complained he and other opponents had been accused of "being against England and in favor of Germany." He was to be followed in the debate by Senator Lucas (D) of Illinois, who described himself as one of the "realistic, hard-boiled avoiders of war," who

New Hitch Balks Japan's Indo-China Peace Pact

TOKYO, March 1 (AP) — A hitch in last-minute negotiations of a Japanese-initiated peace agreement between French Indo-China and Thailand was authoritatively declared to have developed tonight.

Japanese Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka waited at his private residence from 4 p. m. until 10 p. m. for French Ambassador Charles Arsene Henry to keep an appointment, it was said, but the meeting did not take place.

It was believed in authoritative quarters the absence of instructions from the French government at Vichy caused the ambassador's delay.

Previously authoritative quarters had suggested a peace agreement was nearing completion and final settlement might be announced tonight or early tomorrow. A Japanese ultimatum expired at noon yesterday.

WEATHER

LOCAL—Intermittent light snow ending tonight, colder; Sunday fair and colder; lowest temperature tonight about 20; fresh northerly winds.

NEW ENGLAND—Intermittent light snow tonight and in north and east portions of Maine Sunday. Colder tomorrow.

Nazis Fine Dutch Foes 8 Millions

AMSTERDAM (V I a Berlin), March 1 (AP)—The German military authorities fined the city of Amsterdam 15,000,000 guilders (nominally, nearly $8,000,000) today as a penalty for recent disorders against the Nazi occupation.

Hog Killer Killed by Hog

PUEBLO, Colo., March 1 (AP)—George Jerks, a hog killer in a packing house, was kicked in the hand yesterday by a hog. The kick drove a sharp knife Jerks was holding into his abdomen, stabbing him to death.

HITLER SEES BULGAR SIGN AXIS PACT

VIENNA, March 1 (AP)—In the presence of Adolf Hitler, little Bulgaria signed up today for partnership in the German-Italian-Japanese-military alliance. Through the signature of her premier, Bogdan Philoff, Bulgaria joined Rumania, Hungary and Slovakia as the smaller states which have been lined up for the "new order."

The ceremony came at 1:50 p. m. (6:50 a. m., Boston time). Historic Belvedere Palace was the setting.

PRAISED BY HITLER

Ribbentrop signed for Germany, Ciano for Italy and Oshima for Japan. Hitler took no active part in the ceremony.

When Philoff had set his hand to a protocol expanding the alliance, the signers walked into the center hall of the palace, where Hitler warmly congratulated the principals.

Diplomatic representatives of the lesser members of the alliance were there as observers.

Von Ribbentrop welcomed the party at 1:43 p. m. and the actual ceremony of the signing was over seven minutes later.

Bulgaria's formal adherence to the one-for-all and all-for-one alliance marked another step in the Axis diplomatic offensive to strip Britain of potential military footholds in southeastern Europe.

NAZI INVASION NEXT

Generally it was expected the expansion of the alliance would be followed by movement of troops into Bulgaria, toward Greece. Perhaps such a move would be explained as merely German assistance for training of the Bulgarian army as was the case with Rumania.

There were signs Britain was

MRS. MARY KIRK, DAUGHTER BEVERLY
After Night of Terror . . . Beverly's Safe With Ma

GIRL, 7, LOST ALL NIGHT IN STORM-SWEPT LYNN WOODS, FOUND UNHURT

Seven-year-old Beverly Kirk of Wollaston was found by an 18-year-old Boy Scout official in the Lynn woods today, little the worse for the ordeal of having wandered about for 16 hours while the night's snowstorm raged and a 50-mile-an-hour gale howled.

Her face begrimed, her ski-suit water-soaked and torn from her battles through the brush, the plucky child was still on her feet, limping along a trail close to what is known as Lantern Rock, near Burrill Hill observation tower.

Examination showed she had suffered a frostbitten toe, but was otherwise unharmed, despite the prolonged exposure. She was put to bed, but will be up and around again tomorrow, a doctor said.

200 SEARCH FOR CHILD

Beverly vanished about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. She had accompanied two older sisters, Dorothy, 9, and Elaine, 11, to a small pond where they went skating. Beverly didn't have any skates and she was cold.

As she headed back to the home of an uncle, Henry Welch of Walnut st., North Saugus, she lost her way. The little girls were visiting with their mother, Mrs. Walter Kirk, of Arlington st., Wollaston.

More than 200 police, CCC workers, Boy Scouts and volunteers were combing the 2200-acre area of woods, brush and swamplands today when the party of scouts, of Troop 23, Lynn, came across the child.

FOUND BY SCOUT

Charles Rich, 18-year-old Boston University freshman and athlete, who is assistant scoutmaster of the troop, first saw her, stumbling along the narrow trail. His home is in Piedmont st., Lynn.

"The other fellows and myself were working through the woods about 50 feet apart when I spied the girl in a green snow suit," Rich said.

"When she saw me, she stood still with a finger in her mouth. She was a pretty woebegone looking person with her dirty face and torn suit and I thought she was going to burst out crying.

"But she didn't. Instead she

Gale Kills 20 On Coast, Goes to Sea

Winds which whipped the first of March snowstorm to near-blizzard proportions today carried the disturbance off to sea, but not until three deaths were counted in New England and 20 along the Atlantic coast.

Latest victims:

John Saunders, 28, Fall River, struck by a hit-run autoist in Tiverton, R. I., died at St. Ann's Hospital, Fall River.

Thomas J. Demetz, 33, State st., Providence, died in Morton Hospital, Taunton, from injuries sustained as his auto hit another, head-on, at the height of the storm.

Previously, Lloyd Perry of Wakefield, R. I., had been listed. He died shovelling snow.

Whipped by a 50-mile-an-hour wind the storm swept up from the Virginia Capes to pile drifts a dozen feet high in New Jersey, Pennsylvania and New York before northeast winds forced it to turn to sea where it centered off the southeastern Massachusetts coast.

On Pennsylvania roads seven persons were killed in automobile accidents. Three lives were lost in Virginia, three in New Jersey, two each in New York and Maryland.

Philadelphia reportedly was hardest hit of large coastal cities and

Lost Child Tells Own Story

By BEVERLY KIRK
As told to Alice Bissell, Boston American Staff Reporter

I was up with my sister, Elaine, on a little skating pond in the woods. I didn't have any skates so I got cold. I said I wanted to go home.

I went to the path to my uncle's house. On the way down the hill I got lost. I walked and walked. I was cold and I cried.

When it got dark I got afraid. I walked until I was so tired I almost fell down.

I never saw a light or anybody, but I heard my Uncle Henry holler and I hollered, but I guess he didn't hear me.

Then I crawled under a bush and cried.

I didn't sleep very good. I woke up before it was light and started walking again.

I heard a shout and saw some big boys running toward me. The next thing I knew they were shouting my name.

They carried me to an auto and drove me to my uncle's house.

Then I saw my mummy. I was happy.

My mummy took me in her arms and took me into the kitchen and cried over me.

My uncle and lots of people asked me how I felt. There were a lot of people there and I said sometimes I was afraid.

MAKING GAS MASKS FOR U. S. DEFENSE—Although none of the belligerents in the current war has yet used poisonous gas, heads of the United States' defense program are taking no chances . . . and production of gas masks speeds up at the Edgewood, Md., arsenal. In four pictures men and women are pictured busily engaged in the manufacture of them. At the extreme left, girls place hoses into the masks . . . then the eye frames are crimped into the mask by a machine. Next follows the mouthpiece, and right, the finished product, modeled by a soldier. Masks are only good for gases that must be inhaled to do their deadly work . . . they offer no protection against mustard gas.

15 PLATINUM FOXES ARRIVE HERE ON FINNISH FREIGHTER

Aboard the Finnish freighter Mathilda Thorden, when she tied up here, 13 days out of Petsamo today, were: Fifteen "platinum" foxes valued at $600 each, 25 volunteers who fought against Russia in the Finnish war; two foreign correspondents, a singer known as the "Bing Crosby of Sweden," and a variety of news on the Russo-Finnish campaign.

The foxes, imported for breeding purposes, and carefully guarded at the dock, were received by T. M. Dix of Everett, for transfer to a farm at Norton.

The ex-soldiers were Finnish-Americans and Finnish-Canadians who volunteered for war service and are just returning home. They said American aid in materials came too late and that in the shortage of equipment the Finn army was using guns of 1871 donated by the French.

TWO WRITERS ABOARD

Miss Barbro Alving, 32, on the staff of the Stockholm Daily News, made the trip in order to reach England, a total distance of 7500 miles, as against some 300 miles direct route from Stockholm to London.

Miss Alving had three bags, one of them containing a typewriter. She said she had taken the roundabout route because she was unable to get a visa to cross to England, principally because of her dispatches from Madrid, from Helsinfors and Viborg. She volunteered that she writes as "Bang."

The other correspondent was Haim A. Hurwitz of the Jewish Daily Forward, and his attractive wife. They were in Warsaw during the bombing. The Finns lean toward Germany, he said, and fear further designs of Russia.

TELLS RAF RAIDS

The Swedish "Bing Crosby" was Harry Brandelius, concert singer, travelling with his wife, Gunvor, formerly a dress designer. They have appeared in Swedish motion pictures. Brandelius said the German-occupied Norwegian ports have taken a terrific battering from the RAF raids.

Favorite of the ship was little Aina Waliin, 8, of Helsinki, one of 10 children in a family living on a farm outside the city. She came to this country to be adopted by an uncle, Jan D. Klemchuck of Chicago.

George Golovin, 22, a combat pilot in the Finnish forces, said he was on his way to Canada. He declined to say whether he intended to enlist. A Russian, Golovin left his homeland when 2 years old. He said that in the air war the Finns shot down 800 Russian planes and lost only 47.

ITALIAN KING ORDERS 3-DAY MOURNING FOR ALFONSO

ROME, March 1 (AP)—King Vittorio Emanuele ordered three days' mourning in the Italian court for Alfonso XIII of Spain today, while Queen Elena knelt in prayer beside the monarch's body at the Grand Hotel.

She talked consolingly with former Queen Victoria of Spain in a half-hour visit to the room where Alfonso lay in state.

The former queen kept vigil last night beside the white-robed body while a dozen priests said masses at half-hourly periods until dawn.

Three of the royal couple's children—Prince Juan, already being addressed as "his majesty" Prince Jaime and Infanta Beatrice—were with their mother in the modest hotel apartment where Alfonso died of angina pectoris yesterday in his 55th year.

Tall candles flickered at the corners of the former monarch's bier. A big laurel cross with a gold-lettered ribbon reading:

"From Elena and Vittorio," was sent by Italy's king and queen.

The Italian government will provide an escort of troops for the procession from the Church of St. Mary of the Angels where a funeral mass will be celebrated Monday, to the Spanish National Church, where the body will be temporarily entombed.

MADRID, March 1 (AP)—Former King Alfonso XIII is expected to return in death to the realm he fled a decade ago, a voluntary exile.

Under a decree to be issued by General Franco today, permission will be granted to bury the ex-monarch in the royal pantheon at Escorial, traditional burial place of Spanish kings. The mausoleum is 31 miles from Madrid.

Ft. Knox Vaults Now Hold Half Of World Gold

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP)—The bombproof Treasury vaults at Ft. Knox, Ky., now hold $14,579,591,387.22 worth of gold—about half the monetary gold in the world.

This was revealed by the Treasury today after completing the movement of $9,055,884,651 of the metal from New York to Ft. Knox by "registered mail." Movement of the metal started last July.

Weighing about 9000 tons, the "mail" was shipped with unprecedented secrecy aboard 45 special trains, guarded by hordes of postal inspectors, secret service agents, and army units. The postage was about $1,800,000.

Altogether the Treasury owns more than three-quarters of the monetary gold in the world. The remainder of its $22,200,000,000 total gold holdings is scattered between New York, Philadelphia, Denver and San Francisco.

O'HARA COURT INQUEST ASKED IN AUTO DEATH

A Taunton court inquest was sought today in the death of Walter E. O'Hara, 43-year-old industrialist and pioneer in New England horse racing, who was killed in a head-on automobile crash on the Providence-Taunton turnpike.

O'Hara, who four times became a millionaire in a brilliant but stormy business career, probably met instant death when his machine swerved across the road, crashing headlong into an oncoming machine.

Medical Examiner Charles A. Atwood said the court inquest would follow his autopsy today.

O'Hara was returning to Providence from Boston, where he had been in conference with Lou Smith, head of Rockingham racetrack. Although forced out of racing after building Narragansett Park to the top horse plant in the nation, the spectacular O'Hara never lost interest in racing—always promising a comeback in the sport.

GRIM EVIDENCE

Grim evidence of the fact that O'Hara had fought relentlessly to beat death—as he had beaten life so many times—were black tire marks, more than 100 feet long, indicating that he had tried in vain to brake his car.

Seriously injured in the crash also were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Floyd Lounsbury, of Simsbury, Ct., occupants of the other car. All three victims were sped in a police ambulance to Morton Hospital, Taunton, where O'Hara was pronounced dead on arrival.

Lounsbury, head of the Latin and Classic departments at Westminster School, was on his way to Boston to attend an educational conference at the Hotel Statler today. He suffered shock, fracture of the breastbone and lacerated face. His wife suffered a fractured right arm, compound fracture of the right knee and lacerations of the head and face.

The tragic collision, occurred on the main highway, about three miles from the center of Taunton.

DRIVING ALONE

O'Hara, who usually drove with a chauffeur—and in fact, according to registry of motor vehicle officials, obtained his first driver's license less than six months ago, on Sept. 8, 1940—was alone in his car when it shot across the road into the path of the Lounsbury car.

The two automobiles met with a terrific crash. The force of the impact tore loose the motors of both cars and telescoped them into a locked mass of wreckage at the side of the road.

O'Hara's body was found crumpled behind the wheel. With some difficulty, rescuers extricated Lounsbury's body from the front seat of the other car, where it was tightly wedged by the steering post.

LIVING AT HOTEL

Last person known to have seen O'Hara alive, Lou Smith, was badly shaken when informed of the death of his friend and former associate, as he left Boston for Detroit.

"It's hard to believe," said Smith. "He was in such good spirits when he left me."

O'Hara, it was learned, had been living at a Boston hotel for the past week and was still registered there at the time of his death. Daily conferences he had with prominent persons, including Smith, led to reports he was planning to open another race track in another part of the country.

Atty. Patrick Harrington of Fall River, O'Hara's counsel, announced last night that he had also been acting as the representative of Boston interests seeking a $5,000,000 government contract.

O'Hara's body was claimed at the undertaker's establishment by his wife, Mrs. Rose McLaughlin O'Hara, and his sister, Mrs. Mary Galligan, of New Bedford; and a brother, Neal, Boston newspaper columnist.

The funeral will be held from Mrs. O'Hara's home in Upton rd., Providence, Monday, with burial at Middleboro.

O'Hara was thrice-married, twice-divorced. He first was married to Helen B. Langshaw of New Bedford in 1918. She divorced him in 1927.

His second wife, Mrs. Cle O'Hara, was granted a divorce in January, 1939. He was married again last June to his present widow.

FIRE SWEEPS FT. MYERS BARRACKS

FORT MYER, Va., March 1 (INS)—Twelve companies of fire fighters, ten from nearby Washington, and one each from Arlington, Va., and Fort Myer, today fought to prevent a high wind from spreading a raging fire which swept Battery C barracks of the 16th Field Artillery here.

Two members of the post's fire department were overcome by smoke. The fire soon spread to Battery B barracks, which appeared doomed.

The fire, visible for miles, shot smoke and flames hundreds of feet in the air. Firemen were hampered in their efforts by low water supply.

The fire, originated near the furnace room of Battery C barracks.

Greece Shaken By Earthquake

ATHENS, March 1 (AP)—Northern Greece was shaken by a destructive earthquake today and early reports indicated that casualties would prove heavy.

Buildings collapsed in Larisa, a town with about 30,000 inhabitants. The panicky population fled their homes, many in nightclothes, when the shocks were felt.

Larisa authorities telegraphed for tents for 15,000 homeless persons. Troops were engaged in removing victims trapped in debris.

2d False Alarm At City Hospital

A false alarm, the second within 36 hours, sent a dozen pieces of fire apparatus to Boston City Hospital at the height of the noon traffic today. As on Thursday night, the alarm was pulled from a box in the grounds, inside the East Concord st. gate.

Hospital administrators have redoubled efforts to learn how the alarm was sounded. They said the box is within the grounds and that at night it is beyond the reach of persons outside, as the entrance is barred by a 14-inch iron picket gate.

A check-up is being made of attendants having business in that part of the property and of mental patients allowed the freedom of the yard.

Bartenders Loaf as Pay At Devens Goes for Pop

Bartenders in towns adjacent to Ft. Devens were indulging in a mild form of groaning today, but they had nothing on local draft officials nearly stymied in efforts to find Bay State men for the draft.

While the cavaliers of the spigots in Ayer and Shirley benefited little by the $450,000 payroll at Devens because of Lent, local selective service boards were trying desperately but futilely in some cases —to meet demands of the Army for men in time.

On the lists are registered plenty of Bay Staters, it's true, but the catch is that they aren't fully classified, or possibilities have been exhausted by a large percentage of rejections.

SET TOO HIGH

In some cases, according to protests, the revised quotas have been set too high for some boards, such as Belmont and Haverhill among others, to meet requirements on schedule.

The situation is described as not alarming, however, for the draft officials simply will send new men down by day as they are classified, until their full quota is filled, it was explained.

At Ft. Devens, some 15,000 men split the $450,000 payroll melon as they received sums ranging from $31 to $156 per man and started a spending spree

However, it was observed that the non-liquor establishments, such as ice cream parlors and food emporiums, were getting the business of soldiers.

Turkey was served at noon today to the 172 members of Battery D, Fifth Field Artillery Battalion, to mark the outfit's 165th birthday as the nation's oldest continuous military organization. A lineal descendant of Capt. Alexander Hamilton's company, it was formed in 1776. At one time the unit constituted the entire military force of the nation—in 1784, while stationed at West Point. It is now an anti-tank arm.

200,000 MAY ESCAPE JULY CALL AS ENLISTMENTS RISE

By JOSEPH A. BORS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 1 (INS)—At least 200,000 draft-age men originally scheduled for induction before July 1 will not have to be called by then because of the high rate of enlistments in the regular army, Selective Service headquarters disclosed today.

According to latest figures, the present strength of the Army is 1,010,000, leaving only 390,000 to be called to fill the July quota of 1,400,000. Plans for the induction of selectees beyond that date have not been completed.

At the same time officials asserted that local draft boards throughout the nation are capable of supplying "an army of any size within two weeks" from the 16,000,000 men registered.

To date a total of 260,000 selectees have been added to the Army. Originally, the plan was to call 800,000 men by July for a year's training. Because of the high enlistment rate, officials said that probably not more, and possibly less, than 600,000 would be needed.

The Army now is comprised of 445,000 enlisted men, 65,000 officers in all branches, 240,000 National Guard members and 260,000 selectees.

Even if the entire number still needed to fill the July quota were obtained through selective service lists the total called during the period would not exceed 650,000.

The March selective service quota is 150,000 men, authorities said, and a similar number is to be called in April.

FLAME-THROWER—German engineers use a flame-thrower to capture a pill-box that opposed their advance during campaign in the low countries and in France last summer. BULGARIA MASSES ARMY, SIGNS PACT WITH HITLER LOOKING ON waging a diplomatic struggle to the last to prevent Bulgaria from becoming the avenue for German armies going to Italy's aid in Greece.

Unconfirmed reports reaching Belgrade from Sofia said the British government had handed an ultimatum to the Sofia government, expiring at midnight tonight, threatening war unless Bulgaria foreswore any intention of granting right-of-way to Nazi armies.

London sources, however, denied an ultimatum had been delivered.

WHAT'LL TURKEY DO?

Bulgaria was reported quiet except for one dispatch that spoke briefly of a speed up in virtual general mobilization.

Turkey's reaction remained to be seen. Only two days ago her military and diplomatic leaders announced they were in complete accord on Balkan problems with a British mission headed by Foreign Sec. Anthony Eden.

Turkey is Britain's non-belligerent ally, pledged to fight any act of "aggression" leading to war in the eastern Mediterranean area. But she also has a non-aggression accord with Bulgaria—a commitment which the Axis welcomed a few days ago as a promise of neutrality if Germany marched into Bulgaria.

SIGNERS HITLER'S GUESTS

The Vienna ceremony bore all the earmarks of an historic event. It brought the most imposing gathering of any of the occasions on which lesser powers adhered to the three-power alliance.

Hitler was accompanied to Vienna by Gen. Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the command of German armed forces. A luncheon for Hitler and his guests followed the ceremony at Belvedere palace, an ancient home of the Hapsburgs.

It was there that Germany and Italy arbitrated the territorial dispute between Hungary and Rumania which was followed by Hungary's signing of the three-power alliance Nov. 20.

Philoff's signature was the 64th to be affixed to the pact and its protocols since it originated among Germany, Italy and Japan in Berlin, Sept. 27, 1940. Several signatures, such as Von Ribbentrop's, have been repeated several times.

The basic provision of the pact is that the signatories pledge mutual support to each other in event any one of them is attacked by a power not at the time involved in the European or oriental wars.

A special German plane bearing Philoff, his entourage and the German minister to Bulgaria, Baron Herbert von Richthofen, reached Vienna shortly ahead of Hitler and Keitel at 12:15 p. m. The Bulgarians were greeted by von Ribbentrop, Ciano and Oshima.

The same three greeted Hitler.

Hitler was given an ovation by large crowds in front of Belvedere Palace and the Imperial hotel.

Ribbentrop and Oshima had been here since last night. Ciano arrived by special train early this morning.

With addition of Bulgaria to their sphere, apparently imminent, there remained for the Axis Powers only two blank spots in the Balkans —Yugoslavia, already distinctly friendly, and Greece, fighting for her life against Italy.

What military steps would follow today's meeting remained obscure, but it was recalled that Germany has reacted to reports of German troop entry into Bulgaria by repeatedly stating no such move would be made without Sofia's consent.

The consent of Bulgaria to admission of Nazi troops appeared to be one of the items on today's agenda, and the final effect was expected to concern Greece.

Heretofore, Germany has maintained normal relations with Greece, despite her conflict with the Rome end of the Axis.

Telephone communication with Sofia, opened briefly this morning after being cut off for 32 hours, was closed again within an hour.

BRITAIN WARNS BULGARIA NAZIS' MARCH MEANS WAR

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, March 1 (AP)—As word came today that Bulgaria had cast her lot with the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo partners, clearing the way for Nazi troops to march to the frontiers of Turkey and Greece, Britain's minister to Sofia, George W. Rendel, packed for swift departure.

Rendel warned that a Nazi push into Bulgaria might make that country a new battlefield between Britain nad Germany.

Such a march was expected hourly. Reports filtering from Sofia indicated the Danube had been crossed last night by fully-equipped battle-clad Nazi columns from Rumania.

Diplomatic circles said their presence would be accepted by Bulgaria as troops of an ally under a treaty of partnership in the tri-partite pack.

DESTROYS BRITISH RECORDS

Diplomatic reports said Rendel had destroyed his records and ordered a special train for Istanbul.

Rendel was understood to have told Philoff the moment German troops actually marched in, Britain would sever diplomatic relations with Bulgaria as she did with Rumania a fortnight ago. Diplomatic sources said Rendel declared Britain would feel free to consider Bulgaria an enemy camp and bomb lines of communications as soon as the Nazis took over.

Bulgaria's answer, apparently, was mobilization of air defense corps and reinforcement of troops along her southern frontier with Turkey and Greece.

TURKS ALSO MASS ARMY

Turkey was said to be bolstering her forces along the frontier, too, following talks with British Foreign Secretary Eden in which, an Ankara communique said, "complete agreement" was reached.

Despite that communique, few diplomats in the Balkans believed Turkey would actively oppose a German drive into Greece through Bulgaria.

Most of them predicted Turkey would keep within her own frontiers, ready to fight only were her own territory entered.

Sofia was described in diplomatic dispatches as a "veritable madhouse" as the hour of climax neared. Wholesale arrests, started early yesterday, continued through the night. Several British subjects, as well as some employes of the Greek legation, were said to have been hustled off to concentration camps. Police guarded exits from the city.

U. S. to Freeze Bulgar Assets

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP)—Secretary Hull indicated today Bulgarian assets in the United States would be "frozen" if German troops occupied that country.

Hull said that the State Department was closely watching the situation in the Balkans and, if and when German troops occupied the country the question of freezing Bulgarian funds here would immediately arise.

He characterized the situation as somewhat similar to Rumania, into which German troops marched after the Rumanians adopted a pro-Axis policy.

Hull had no official reports of the signing of the Axis agreement by Bulgaria.

Germans Hail Bulgar Pact as Donovan Failure

BERLIN, March 1 (INS)—Bulgaria's participation in the Axis pact today marks the failure of American diplomatic moves in the Balkans, German quarters asserted.

The Balkan tour of Col. William J. Donovan—during which President Roosevelt's special emissary talked with Tsar Boris and Premier Philoff of Bulgaria—thus has borne no fruit, said Nazi authorities.

Moreover, they said, the position of George Earle, United States minister to Sofia, is rapidly becoming untenable. Nazi circles said Earle's "anti-German activities" reached a climax in the minister's altercation with a German last week-end in a Sofia cafe.

F. D. in Aid Talk Despite Cold

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP)—President Roosevelt called the Secretaries of State, Treasury, War and Navy to the White House today in continuation of conferences on plans for administering the British aid bill. It was the only engagement the President made for the day.

On advice of his physician, Rear Admiral Ross T. McIntire, the Chief Executive remained in the even temperature of his second floor study to avoid aggravation of his head cold. He had no fever.

KEEP U. S. A. OUT OF WAR

Your Part in Keeping the U. S. A. Free of War and Dictatorship

Write today to both of your Senators (Massachusetts Senators are David I. Walsh and Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr.). Address them at the Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C. Ask them to oppose Bill No. 1776, the Bill of Wrongs which would nullify the Bill of Rights, "a bill to authorize undeclared war in the name of Peace and dictatorship in the name of Defending Democracy."

The President would have absolute power, if this Bill is passed, to do the following without consulting Congress or the people: Cancel the Neutrality Act; Send our warships and merchant vessels to manufacture an incident in the east as well as the west almost the world over and leave our home shores weak and defenseless.

NOW IS THE TIME TO ACT—Write yourself, simply, clearly—telephone your friends to do the same. Get telegrams in as well but most important, write in person.

Peace House, working with religious and peace organizations of long standing, appeals to all young men who are opposed to war from either religious or humanitarian convictions to register on their draft questionnaire. After years of ardent work for peace our Government recognizes this right. Do not allow the opportunity to escape.

It is a matter of interest to observe that after England's many months of war, Canada does not have compulsory military service for overseas and has no Lease-Lend Bill but is SELLING armaments in large quantities to her mother country. In England over 50,000 Conscientious Objectors are helping their government in peaceful employment.

May not our own beloved country be also accused of war mongering while arming England through the front door and simultaneously slipping munitions to Germany through Russia?

The war in Africa, etc., has certainly no conceivable attribute of democracy. Gandhi, called the only heroic figure of the 20th century, expressed himself recently as follows: "It is a matter of deep regret to me that the Government (British) have not been able to appreciate the Congress (Indian) position—who felt a conscientious objection to helping a war which they regard—as one for saving imperialism, of which India is the greatest victim."

To the Clergy: The undersigned wishes to respectfully entreat you to draw the attention of your congregation to the Ten Commandments as a mode of life to be exercised in the relations between nations as well as individuals.

KING RECEIVES WINANT, DUKE MEETS CONANT

LONDON, March 1 (AP)—With a warm "I'm glad to welcome you," King George VI greeted John G. Winant, the new United States ambassador, today on a windy railroad station platform between Bristol and London.

Spruce in the uniform of a field marshal the King reached for Winant's hand and pumped it. He turned, then, and shook hands with Benjamin Cohen, the envoys assistant.

Winant wore a navy blue coat and a gray suit, both crumpled from his long journey. His white collar appeared a little the worse for wear.

The King's extraordinary gesture was described by diplomatic sources as reciprocation for the reception President Roosevelt had given to Lord Halifax, the British ambassador to Washington.

Earlier today King George's brother, the Duke of Kent, greeted Winant and President James Bryant Conant of Harvard University.

Brendan Bracken, Prime Minister Churchill's personal representative, and Herschel Johnson, charge d'affaires of the United States embassy, met their plane at the airport. They had flown from Lisbon, where a Clipper had brought them from New York.

Italians Retake Dodecanese Isle

ROME, March 1 (AP)—The high command said today Italian reinforcements landed from torpedo boats, yesterday recaptured the island of Castelrosso from British who seized it Tuesday.

The British announced in London last night their forces were withdrawn from the island—one of the Dodecanese in the eastern Mediterranean—"after the troops accomplished their object."—Editor's Note.

The Italian high command said the British overwhelmed the Italian force there, but when Italian reinforcements landed they regained possession, "rapidly destroying the British garrison."

London Guns Foil Nazi Air Raiders

LONDON, March 1 (AP)—German planes flew up the Thames estuary today apparently trying to reach London, but British reports said they were driven off by anti-aircraft fire before they could reach the capital.

London had 31 air raid warnings totalling 44 hours in duration during February, as compared with 41 alerts totalling 81 hours in January. Since the beginning of the war the capital has had 489 alarms aggregating about 1312 hours, or nearly 55 days, according to a British compilation.

Thick mists and high winds over the channel kept air attacks on Britain last night to a minimum.

CARTER GLASS, veteran Senator from Virginia, demands an investigation to determine financial backing of women who staged sit-down strike outside his office at the capital. Mrs. Elizabeth Dilling, (left) author of "The Red Network," who clashed with Capitol police before she was arrested. With her is Mrs. Clara Nibberick of St. Louis. Both women are opposed to passage of the Lease, Lend Bill.

Lucas said, were supporting the bill.

BREWSTER'S NAVAL PLAN

Senator Brewster (R.) ofMaine, who has declined to say how he would vote on the bill, offered an amendment which would permit transfer of larger naval vessels to other governments only when a similar new vessel was added to this nation's navy.

The effect of the amendment, Brewster told reporters, would be to fix a "foundation," both in tonnage and in number of vessels, at the point of the strength of the Navy when the legislation becomes law.

" This is the middle road between those who want to aid Britain by transferring some of our ships and those who claim that under the terms of the bill as it now stands, the President could give away the whole navy," Brewster told reporters.

WHEELER RAPS BULLITT

Wheeler attributed to William C. Bullitt, former ambassador to France, a statement that some of the bill's opponents were affected by "political dementia praecox."

"Of course," Wheeler asserted, "Mr. Bullitt ought to know. I have never been under observation. I have never been in a hospital for the treatment of nervous diseases."

In a speech prepared for Senate delivery, Lucas declared that if the United States would support the British "with the tools they need" naval supremacy would center in Washington after the war "just as sure as the sun rises." But, he added:

"If we abandon Great Britain to its fate, what chance have we to escape being dragged into a war with both Hitler and Japan —fighting on two fronts, vastly outnumbered, laboring under awful handicaps?

"The only two great powers on earth today that are peace-minded are the United States and Great Britain."

INVESTIGATION ASKED

If Britain falls, Lucas declared, "Japan will carve up the Orient while Hitler enslaves Europe and Africa." Then, he said, "The victors will partition South America and build air bases on the very edge of the Panama Canal. To deny this prospect is to live in a fool's paradise."

"We, who support this bill," he continued, "are the real guardians of the peace. We are the realistic, hard-boiled avoiders of war."

Repercussions of the intense dispute over the legislation reached, meanwhile, to the Justice Department where Atty.-Gen. Jackson had under consideration a request by Sen. Glass (D.) of West Virginia for an investigation of a group of women who put on a demonstration in front of Glass' office yesterday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Dilling of Chicago, author and head of the group, was under $25 bond on a police charge of disorderly conduct as a result of the demonstration. The women oppose the British aid bill which Glass supports.

The fiery Virginia senator demanded that the Federal Bureau of Investigation find out who was financing "the unpleasant visit" of the women who, he said, had "created a noisy office a noisy disturbance of which any self-respecting fishwife would be ashamed." The FBI, he declared, should find out "what agents and organizations are directing them and whether they have compiled with our laws requiring the registration of foreign agents."

Mrs. Dilling promptly announced that she had telephoned FBI headquarters and "asked and demanded" an inquiry "to remove the smear of being called 'foreign agents.'"

N. E. DEFENSE AWARDS REACH $1,671,079,583

New England firms received national defense contracts amounting to $30,438,959 in January, bringing this section's total to $1,671,079,583 since June, the New England Council reported today.

Army contracts amounted to $21,827,605; Navy contracts to $5,873,207, and other defense expenditures to $2,738,147.

Today contracts amounting to $67,663 were let to firms in Massachusetts and Rhode Island. The largest item was $16,170 to the Loyal Manufacturing Co. of South Boston for 15,000 one-piece working suits.

"Chow" for the boys in the Army presumably will include cake. One order called for 5457 cake tins at $3301, awarded to a Cambridge firm.

Other items in production were lumber, bronze castings, steel forgings, grinding wheels and honing stones, cable and small arms materiel.

In today's contracts, Massachusetts' share was $45,239 and the award to Rhode Island companies $22,424.

British Capture 9000 in Somali

CAIRO, Egypt, March 1 (AP)—British headquarters announced today 9000 prisoners had been taken in the British offensive in Italian Somaliland.

NAIROBI, Kenya Colony, March 1 (AP)—The British announced today 3000 more prisoners, including 200 Italians, had been rounded up in their drive through Italian Somaliland.

A communique announced capture of Bardera, an important road junction on the Juba river 120 miles north of Gelib, yesterday.

Previously the British had announced 3000 prisoners taken in the drive which carried them across the Juba to Mogadiscio, capital of the colony. Hence those reported today presumably make the total some 6000, mostly natives, for the Somaliland drive.

The communique said many Italians, "including 200 Europeans who had imprisoned themselves close to the barracks at Mogadiscio," had surrendered since the Juba river drive began.

RAF BOMBERS LASH NAZIS ON WIDE FRONT

LONDON, March 1 (AP)—British bombers made a violent attack on the German naval docks and shipyards at Wilhelmshaven last night and reported many bombs burst beside the Bauhafen and on Hipper Hafen, the air ministry news service said.

The service added: "Fires in the dock area made an aiming point for some of our aircraft and these either increased after the bombing or else new fires started up immediately beside them."

The air ministry said Wilhelmshaven was strongly defended and one pilot counted 14 guns shooting at the same time.

The port of Emden and several airdromes in northwest Germany and Holland also were attacked, the Ministry said, and the invasion port of Boulogne, on the Nazi-held French coast, was raided for the 77th time.

RAF Bombers Mine Nazi River Estuaries

BERLIN, March 1 (AP)—Relatively large formations of British bombers mined estuaries of rivers in northwestern Germany during the night, informed sources reported today. Some bombs were said to have been dropped on the land.

CIO Speaker Raps Governor, 3 Bills

Gov. Saltonstall was scored by the Massachusetts chapter of the CIO today on the grounds he "made clear the state's energies would be devoted to national defense, at the expense of any social advances or benefits for the common people."

The speaker was George F. Markham, legislative agent for the organization. Delegates met at Hotel Bradford and Ford Hall.

Markham sounded off with a demand for a "housecleaning" of the state labor relations board, asserting that a number of anti-labor measures, due for hearings in the legislature next Tuesday, needed mobilization of the CIO to fight them.

Markham listed these measures as:

"A bill by the Chamber of Commerce to force a so-called 'cooling-off' period of 30 days before striking;

"A bill to create a labor court, which would practically eliminate the State Labor Board;

"A bill, which, although intended to protect industry against saboteurs, is so poorly drawn that its enactment would destroy the possibility of union activities only slightly connected with national defense."

The convention was urged by John J. Brophy, national CIO director, to back "all-out aid" for Great Britain, but Brophy reminded his listeners they must "fight to preserve their rights."

Gov. Saltonstall, Markham stated, was elected in 1938 on a platform "pledging many things to labor," but, the speaker charged, the Governor didn't bother to make these promises over again.

20 Dead Listed In Coastal Gale

New Jersey had its most severe storm in 20 years.

WIRES BLOWN DOWN

At Boston only two ships docked on time. They were the S. S. Yarmouth from St. John, Newfoundland, and the S. S. St. John from New York, both of the Eastern Steamship Lines.

The S. S. Mormacmail from South America, docked at the Army Base in South Boston, and delayed in her hurried unloading and officials said delivery to the government would be late.

High winds on Cape Cod downed telegraph lines.

At times reaching gale force the winds tore the Nantucket Lightship from its moorings, wrecked power and communication lines, caused at least one death and sent mountainous waves battering the coast.

The Boston weather station reported a wind velocity of 36 miles an hour and an official snow fall of one inch. Elsewhere in New England the blanket averaged about three inches.

Although prepared for a blizzard the public works department in Boston found a force of 600 regular workers sufficient to clear snow and sand streets.

Coast Guard observers at Cape Elizabeth, Me., reported wind gusts at times reached 50 miles an hour. Fire there destroyed a social and civic center and embers blown to St. Luke's Episcopal Church a block away caused slight damage.

Southwestern Massachusetts was hardest hit and from many towns in the region, such as Taunton, Hyannis and Oak Bluffs on Martha's Vineyard, came reports of broken transmission lines.

Camp Edwards experienced its first "black out" as the 45-mile-an-hour wind caused a break-down in the power system. Emergency crews worked during the night to repair electrical equipment at the Martha's Vineyard Hospital.

Draftee Found To Have 32 Teeth And All Perfect

WORCESTER, March 1 (AP)—Mario Matos, 22, a Framingham foundry worker, made the doctors and Army men at the Lamartine st. induction center sit up and gaze with amazement today—he had all his 32 teeth and everyone perfect.

Dr. A. A. Rafferty, dental examiner, said it was the first such case he had seen in 22 years of practice. Twenty properly placed teeth are all that are required to get by the board.

4 Boys Held In Girl Attack

As the 15-year-old white girl they are accused of attacking stood by weeping bitterly, four Roxbury Negro youths ranging from 14 to 16 years-old were held in $2000 each for the grand jury in Roxbury court today.

In a hearing before Judge Samuel Eisenstadt each of the youths pleaded guilty to the attack charge. All, police informed the court, are students in a Boston disciplinary school.

Placed on the stand to testify against the youths, the young girl was so shaken by sobs that Judge Eisenstadt excused her.

Earlier the girl, whose name was withheld, had reported that while walking home from night school she was seized by two Negroes at the junction of Washington and Ruggles st., Roxbury, and pushed into an alley.

Army Calls Creator Of Dead End Kids

NEW YORK, March 1 (INS)—Sidney Kingsley, 33-year-old Pulitzer prize-winning playwright who created the "Dead End Kids," was notified today to report Monday for induction in the Army.

"I am willing and anxious to do my share," Kingsley said.

He and his actress wife, Madge Evans, plan to close their estate at Oakland, N. J., while he is in the Army.

NEW YORK, March 1 (AP)—Magnetic and atmospheric disturbances today completely suspended for a time all wireless and cable communications with Europe and erratically disrupted domestic communications.

NBC said it experienced extreme difficulty on European channels.

Ground currents adding from 15 to 20 volts to the usual 160-volt wire power of the Western Union caused some disturbance.

Similar difficulties were encountered on wireless circuits to South America.

(Boston printer telegraph and Morse circuits were seriously affected by magnetic disturbances today. Telegraphers said the interference was like that of last winter caused by the northern lights.

14 Driven Out In Leominster Fire

LEOMINSTER, March 1 (AP)—Fourteen persons were driven from their apartments today by a fire in the four-story Leominster Hotel block in the business district. One man was injured when a fire ladder, standing against an adjacent building, fell. Fire Chief Ernest P. Johnson estimated the damage at $7000.

$16,312,000 N. E. Home Loans

In new home construction, under the Federal Housing Administration system last year, the six New England states are credited with a total of 3484 mortgages valued at $16,312,000.

Mortgages insured and their value according to word from Washington today, were: Massachusetts, 857 and $3,871,900; Rhode Island, 569 and $2,634,200; Connecticut, 1502 and $7,544,800; Maine, 249 and $952,500; New Hampshire, 152 and $650,600; Vermont, 155 and $658,000.

The New England total is slightly less than one-ninth of California alone, which led the nation in new home construction with 30,943 mortgages worth $131,715,900. The U. S. total was 162,333 mortgages valued at $721,462,431 insured in 1940.

5th Avenue Killer On Hunger Strike

NEW YORK, March 1 (AP)—Anthony Esposito, one of two brothers charged with the Fifth ave. holdup killing of a patrolman and civilian six weeks ago, has gone on a hunger strike in the Tombs prison.

His counsel, Irving J. Tell, disclosed this when he appeared before General Sessions Judge Saul S. Streit with a request that Esposito be transferred to Bellevue Hospital for forcible feeding.

GIRL, 7, SAFE AFTER NIGHT IN WOODS

smiled at me, and I called out to her:

"'What's your name?'

"She said: 'Beverly Kirk. I'm trying to find my way home.'

"I called out to the other boys, Al Pitcher, Leonard Desmond and Joe Harnois and we picked her up and carried her to the road. A man heard the shouting and came up in an automobile.

"Then we took Beverly to her uncle's house."

At that home, where the girl's widowed mother was in a state of collapse after an all-night vigil, it was a dramatic and tearful scene when the door opened.

Mrs. Kirk's husband, a Navy machinist's mate, had died in the tragedy at the launching of the Airplane Carrier Wasp two years ago. She had been certain death was touching her family for a second time—and Beverly was her "pet," because she was the baby.

The young mother raced out the door and grasped the child from the arms of her rescuers.

TOE FROSTBITTEN

Hugging Beverly to her breast, she cried:

"Oh, I can't believe it's true. She's all right? You're sure? Oh, thank God, thank God, you're safe, baby!"

Beverly only clung closer and murmured:

"Mummy, mummy!"

The little wanderer was put to bed and given hot milk.

Dr. James Dumas of Lynn was called. He examined Beverly and said:

"She's going to be all right. Her big toe is frostbitten, but I guess we can fix that. She'll probably be up and around again by tomorrow. Brave little girl."

"CRIED SOME"

Beverly was a little dazed at all the attention—the house filled with reporters and photographers and everyone wanting to talk at once.

When she had relaxed a bit, she told of her wandering, of having heard her Uncle Henry "holler" once while the all-night hunt was going on, but then losing his voice in the dark.

"I guess I cried some," she admitted.

Beverly's disappearance was the second in the Lynn-Saugus area in the past 24 hours.

Yesterday at 3 a. m. William Roberts, 10, of Ballard st., Saugus, was found in a parked automobile in Great Woods rd., after another all-night hunt.

Billy had disappeared the afternoon before because some chums played a prank on him, telling him that "police were after him," for setting a small fire.

TALK ON ALCOHOLISM

Dr. Merrill Moore, psychiatrist associated with the Harvard Medical School and Boston City Hospital, will speak on "Alcoholism" at the weekly lecture of the WPA Recreation Project at Williams Municipal building, West Brookline st., Tuesday at 7:45 p. m.

Bottle Hurled At 'L' Train Injures Four

Three young women and an East Boston man were cut and bruised and a score more passengers in a subway train were thrown into a panic today when a bottle was hurled into the train as it pulled out of the Scollay Sq. station.

The injured were:

Miss Elizabeth DeEntremont, 19, of Princeton st., East Boston, knee cuts and concussion of the brain; Mrs. Dorothy Galloway, 30, of London st., East Boston, chin cut; Mrs. Sandra Mettio, 26, of Forest st., Winchester, head bruises, and John Murphy, 25, of Havre st., East Boston, arm injury.

State Income Tax Cash at New Top

Income tax returns in Massachusetts soared to new heights today as the midnight deadline for filing approached.

Officials said that about $1,500,000 more had been paid in than at the corresponding time a year ago. The increase was attributed both to earlier filing and better business conditions.

The tax division quarters at 40 Court st. will remain open until 5 p. m. today to accommodate tardy payers, although the customary closing hour is noon.

Returns may be mailed up until midnight. Anything bearing a March 1 postmark will be accepted on Monday as having been filed within the deadline.

Thus far there has been no 10 per cent surtax voted by the Legislature on State income. But most taxpayers included in their returns voluntarily, having been assured that such legislative action will surely be taken.

Strip Bandit Identifies Victim

Both victim and accused identified one another today as George D. Swan, 23, of Albion st., South End, confessed strip bandit, returned to the lineup at headquarters to face the fifth of six young woman clerks he admits robbing.

Miss Laura Farber, 23, of Esmond st., Dorchester, a clerk in the Kiddie Kastle, in Blue Hill ave., Roxbury, picked out Swan as the bandit who took $20 from her last Saturday night after forcing her to remove her outer clothing.

Swan, who had already told police he held up the young woman, also identified Miss Farber as his victim.

Previously a 19-year-old Wollaston youth, picked up by police for questioning, had been held in Charles st. jail when Miss Farber identified him as the man who had robbed her. He has been released.

First of 1200 Families Move

The Mission Hill, Roxbury, housing project today became homes for 14 families who formerly lived in sub-standard tenements that once stood on the same site.

Moving in almost as plumbers and paper hangers left were proud parents and excited children, the vanguard of some 1200 families who will occupy the project by summer.

Fifty more families will move in the middle of March and another 175 on April 1.

Jawbones Reveal Most Folk Chew On Right Side, Too

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP)—Most people are right-handed chewers as well as right-handed writers.

Dr. Ales Hrdlicka, anthropologist of the Smithsonian Institution, declared today studies of more than 5000 jawbones, including those of ancient Egyptians and modern Alaskan Eskimos, show the great majority of people keep to the right even when chewing.

Milton Vote on 8 Posts Seen Light

Milton voters went to the polls today to fill eight town posts in what officials predicted would be one of the lightest votes in town history. It was expected that less than 25 per cent of the town's 12,000 voters would cast ballots.

Fake Agent Suspect Held

Posing as an agent for a sewing machine concern, Anthony Bruno, 23-year-old New York ex-college student, victimized a score or more of housewives during the past year, police charged today as the prisoner faced a headquarters lineup.

Bruno is said to have admitted ten such instances, although authorities alleged he had operated more extensively in East Boston, the West and North Ends, Belmont, Cambridge and Somerville.

His stunt, they said, was to "check up" on a sewing machine, explain that it needed repairs and then cart it off and sell it at some second-hand store.

He made between $2000 and $2500 in his operations, police estimated. Bruno, who has been living in the West End, will face court Monday.

Hub Rites Planned For Dr. Briggs

Boston funeral services today were planned for Dr. L. Vernon Briggs, 77, of Beacon st., nationally known psychiatrist and sponsor of Massachusetts' Briggs law, who died at his winter home in Arizona.

Parrot on Hunger And Talk-Strike as Doctor Joins Army

CHICAGO, March 1 (AP)—Dr. Louis Spector's parrot is terribly lonesome since his master joined the Army.

He won't talk; he won't whistle like he used to, and he won't eat—much. Dr. Spector's sister, Mrs. Meyer Agruss, said the bird only squawks "Lou, O Lou!"

"He's on a food strike, and it's pitiful," Mrs. Agruss said.

She scoffed at the suggestion the parrot might have heard about Laddie, the dog that pined away for his master in the Army.

Rosita Royce to Star in New Revue at Howard Monday

From doves to hawks and all for a lark, briefly, is what has happened to Rosita Royce, who heads the new Old Howard burlesque revue, starting Monday.

Miss Royce is the girl whose "Dance of the Doves" created a sensation on the New York World's Fair midway. She now is starred in the farcical revue, "Night Hawks," which is described as one of those happy-go-lucky burlesque performances that has one bright interval after another. Whether she introduces her doves into this bedlam is not revealed by the Old Howard's otherwise chatty press agent.

Present at next week's Old Howard's goings-on will be such surefire comics as Jack Diamond, Frank X. Silk and Bo Jenkins.

Then, too, there will be great Oriental beauty and local favorite, Amy Fong; the exciting Zara, Romayne, the dancer, the charming Ethel Deveaux, Gloria Dahl, Dudley Douglass and Wendy Harris.

Specialty acts in the next week's company include Carmen and Conchita, song-and-dance team; the Five Cardovas, internationally known gymnasts; Yvonne and Gilbert, adagio dancers, and the 30 lively song-and-dance girls who make up the well-trained chorus.

On the screen may be seen "Torrid Zone," with Ann Sheridan and James Cagney, and "Golden Gloves," with J. Carroll Naish.

The three daily shows start at 12, 2:30 and 8:30 p. m., and there is a weekly Friday midnight show, at 11:30 p. m.

ROSITA ROYCE
On New Bill at Howard

Keith-Boston Puts on An All-Horror Bill

RKO Boston promises the all-horror show of all time, starting Monday, when it will unreel "Dracula," starring Bela Lugosi, and "Frankinstein," with Boris Karloff.

This double-distilled dose of spine-chilling entertainment will continue for three days.

'Kitty Foyle' Now On Bowdoin Screen

"Kitty Foyle," starring Ginger Rogers in the white-collar girl role that won her the Academy Award for the best actress' performance of 1940, may be seen on Bowdoin screen through Tuesday. On the same bill is "Give Us Wings," starring the Dead End Kids and the Little Touch Guys.

Katharine Hepburn Turns Down Role

Katherine Hepburn has turned down a starring role in Dorothy Dey Wendell's "Bow to the Wittiest," which Arthur Hopkins controls, to fulfill a contract immediately.

Star at Globe Draws Crowds

The new Globe show, starring the Polish beauty, Mary Joyce, is proving to be just what the customers ordered.

It is doing excellent business and naturally for it combines the qualities that make for first-rate burlesque entertainment. In the cast of 70 entertainers, the blonde Miss Joyce and the comic Bob Carney are standouts.

Others featured are Terry King, Louise Day, Chiquita Garcia and the 30 dancing Bernardolls, whose Polish polka is undoubtedly their best number.

Carney's many co-workers deserving a hand are Joey Cowan, Harry Ryan, Irving Benson and Parker Gee. Marion Young's songs and Roberta Carr's dances are also receiving rounds of applause.

The screen bill features "Typhoon," the Dorothy Lamour-Robert Preston co-starring South Sea idyll, and "Banjo On My Knee," with Joel McCrea and Barbara Stanwyck.

A special added feature for tomorrow only will be Stanley Sielanski, Polish stage and screen comedian, who will relate his experiences as an officer of a Polish submarine. He also may be seen on the Globe screen in "Manewri Miloshe" and "Straszny Dwor."

John Boles Heads Star List On Lowell Sunday Program

Lowell's Memorial Auditorium should do capacity business tomorrow when John Boles, Hollywood's most romantic singing star and screen hero, is scheduled to make two appearances.

Boles, whom everybody remembers as Irene Dunne's co-star in the earlier film version of Fanny Hurst's story, "Back Street," will sing all the old favorites as well as new numbers now restricted on the air waves.

Harry James, the nation's No. 1 trumpeter, and his famous band are additional features on a genuinely impressive bill including seven big acts and two name bands. The program will begin at 3 p. m. and will be repeated at 8:15 p. m.

The auditorium, most beautiful building in Merrimack Valley, seats 4000 persons and boasts ample neighboring parking space.

'FOOTSTEPS IN THE DARK' OPENS ON METROPOLITAN SCREEN THURSDAY

Errol Flynn Star In Mystery Film

Errol Flynn is back to bring more thrills and adventure to movie fans, but this time he swaps his bow and arrow for top hat and tails.

He is starred in the role of a writer of mystery stories and amateur sleuth combined in the Warner Brothers comedy-mystery film, "Footsteps in the Dark," which is to open next Thursday at the Metropolitan Theater.

Co-starred with Flynn is lovely Brenda Marshall, whose performance in "The Sea Hawk" brought raves from critics and public alike.

Flynn, who attempts to lead a double life because he wants to keep his mystery writing exploits a secret, gets himself into a fine mess with the police accusing him of murder on one hand and his wife, Brenda's role, accusing him of being unfaithful on the other.

Errol finally straightens things out but only after a series of harrowing and laugh provoking experiences.

Supporting players include such Hollywood favorites as Ralph Bellamy, Lee Patrick, Alan Hale, Allen Jenkins, Grant Mitchell and Roscoe Karns. Lloyd Bacon directed the film.

"Footsteps in the Dark" was written for the screen by Lester Cole and John Wexley from a play by Lazlo Fodor, Bernard Merivale and Jeffrey Dell.

The second feature will be "Golden Hoofs," with Jane Withers and Charles "Buddy" Rogers co-starring.

BRENDA MARSHALL and Errol Flynn in "Footsteps in the Dark," a mystery film on the Met screen Thursday.

'Kitty Foyle' On 9 Screens

Ginger Rogers, Hollywood's best actress of 1940, may be seen in the picture which won her the coveted Academy Award, "Kitty Foyle," today through Friday at the following theaters:

Embassy, Waltham; Rivoli, Roxbury; Strand, Dorchester; Oriental, Mattapan, and Washington St. Olympia, Boston.

The co-feature with "Kitty Foyle" at all these theaters will be "High Sierra," co-starring Humphrey Bogart and Ida Lupino.

The following theaters will play "Kitty Foyle" during the next two weeks: Capitol, Allston; Paramount, Newton; Franklin Park, Dorchester; Codman, Dorchester, and Jamaica, Jamaica Plain.

Star of 'Cabin in the Sky' Unspoiled by Her Success

Having achieved stardom on the musical comedy stage and then duplicating the same achievement in the dramatic field—a feat equalled by few actresses in the American theater—it would not have been too surprising if Ethel Waters had let success go a little to her head.

To her everlasting credit, however, the star of "Cabin in the Sky," the musical comedy hit which comes to the Colonial Theater for a two weeks' engagement beginning Monday, March 10, has preserved the humility which is part of her greatness.

Even her appearances on the stage are marked by what commentators term "modesty" and "reticence," indicating the honesty, simplicity and sincerity which everyone credits to her.

The stories of her unaffected candor are legion. When "As Thousands Cheer" scored heavily on Broadway, with Miss Waters starring together with Marilyn Miller, Helen Broderick and Clifton Webb, Irving Berlin and Moss Hart, authors of the revue, inaugurated a series of weekly parties for notables to celebrate their success. They repeatedly invited Miss Waters, who never attended.

Hart asked her why. In effect, Miss Waters replied: "If it is important to you I'll be glad to come and sing and entertain your guests providing you do not consider it objectionable if I have to leave immediately afterwards."

An inveterate theatergoer, she always gets a seat in the back row of the orchestra where no one will be disturbed by her presence.

"One woman gave me a corsage once when she recognized me," she says," but some of them have a way of hurting you."

Her humility dates way back to the honky-tonk days when no one would let her sing anything but suggestive songs. It was an uphill battle until she began to sing songs like "Dinah," "Supper Time," "Stormy Weather" and others she has made famous.

ELSIE ROBINSON, writes the woman's viewpoint, discusses everyday affairs and problems, regularly in the Boston American.

Blustery March? Not for Them!

THE FACT THAT MARCH is coming in like a lion doesn't mean a thing to hundreds of Bostonians who are sojourning in the land of waving palms and tropical gardens . . . The Harris Nelsons are down there and so is Mrs. Edmund S. Love and Marriage

Her Husband Very Jealous

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

We've been married close to 18 years. I have helped my husband in his business, which keeps open from early morning until late at night, and we're working seven days a week. I seldom can get my housework done, except before and after business hours.

My husband is a terribly jealous person; if he happens to be away for a short time, he rushes back to me to see if I've entertained anyone during his absence. This makes me terribly nervous and I ca hardly stand his suspicions.

I'm 40 years old and can honestly say that I don't even look at other men. We have no children, for which I'm thankful. He gets ideas about everyone, even those who are his best friends. Often I think I'll leave him as he really gets worse as the years go by. Can you help me, please?

DISCOURAGED.

When jealously reaches this stage, it's a question whether the person is really sane and responsible. After 18 years of married life you'd think he would have recovered from the jealous-lover attitude. Perhaps you've been too patient.

This column had a letter from a woman who had the same problem. She took it for ten years and then staged a few uprisings that made him behave himself. Why don't you try something like that? Above all, don't let this state of things undermine your health and mentality.

Society Notes

Mrs. John Stevens of Beacon st. and her daughter, Mrs. R. Lentner Sewall of Beverly Farms, are spending a few days together at the Ritz Carlton Hotel in New York.

Sibley, will give an informal entertainment at the Hamper supper and coffee party to be held at the Marblehead Arts Ass'n Sunday evening, March 16. Tomorrow afternoon Mrs. J. Selmer Larsen will be hostess at an exhibition, talk and tea from 4 to 6.

Should Uncle Be An Usher?

DEAR MISS VANDERBILT:

I am to be married soon and would like to know if it is correct to have my uncle, with whom I have made my home for some time, act as usher. My mother has recently remarried and my stepfather is giving me in marriage. He is a bit older than the rest of the wedding party, and I am wondering if it would be more correct to ask someone nearer our own age. What do you think?

A. A.

I find myself wondering why you did not give your uncle, who has been so kind to you, the honor of giving you in marriage. Since your decisions are still ont definitely made, perhaps you would like to consider doing this.

Or you might be escorted up the aisle by your uncle, and, at the proper time during the ceremony, have your mother step from her place in the first pew and give you in marriage.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Ellis Robinson

WE'RE cutting down the old acacia from the back of the garden today. The garden of the city house lies on the slope of Twin Peaks . . . heaves up into the forest . . . a tangle of moss-grown paths and ferny pools edged with ferns. And, for years, the old acacia—they call it mimosa in Italy—has spread over the garden from the bank above . . . spreading its golden balls of fragrant fluff in the spring . . .

For long, long years it has sheltered the little shrines . . . the moss-grown trails. But this year, in the big rains, its old roots slipped . . . its heavy trunk came slipping down. It periled all of us who lived below.

Watching, something in my heart aches wrenchingly. For it has so long been my friend, that fine, old tree. I walked beneath it with the boy who's gone. I dreamed beneath it in the days which saw great changes come.

ONE COMES to love a tree like that. In time, it comes to be the symbol of all love and strength just as some lives do, lives on whose strength we lean. The lives that give you comfort, beauty and security. And then . . . one day the strong one goes. As this has gone. And you are sure that love has left your life. That there will, never more, be shelter, fragrant bloom or peace.

But do not be too sure!

We're cutting down the old, top-heavy tree . . . but we will leave its trunk. And, from that trunk, in time, will spring new shoots.

And so it is, I think, with love. The roots that really strike the deep depths of the soul, live on forever.

Storms may come and break the spreading boughs. Accidents . . . hurts . . . that scare the lusty trunk. Even a seeming death that breaks both bloom and bough. But deep within the soil, the life goes on.

Deep in the soil . . . the soul . . . the roots of love go on.

The tree we know may never come again. Its certain shape may no more loom against the sky. The dear, loved limbs may be a memory——

But that from which it sprang, can never die.

FOR LOVE PERSISTS.

IF ONCE you've really loved, its fragrance will abide for life. Always, in what you do or dream or dare, its beauty will go on.

And from its hidden roots, new shoots will spring. They may not bear the shape of that dear shelter which you've lost. But they, too, will give shelter, to more grieving hearts . . . comfort and haven, if you'll have it so. And, in that comfort, you may find the healing for your own deep hurt.

Do not think love is lost because its first fruits die. Beneath the leaves, the branches, and the sturdy trunk, there lies deep hidden roots which grip the heart. And from those roots, if you are willing, greater love will spring.

You Can Be Beautiful

Exercises for Slimness

By ARLINE GOULD

IT'S A FAR CRY . . . from the lithe, slim-hipped beauty of the famous ballet dancer . . . to the below-waist flabbiness of figure of the too-often exerciseless daily routine of both office worker and homemaker.

But Tamara Toumanova . . . breathtakingly beautiful premiere ballerina of the Original Ballet Russe has a gift of lithe loveliness for those of us who lead much more prosaic lives. For the very exercise routines . . . that keep her lovely . . . can make you lovely!

Not that we'd have you going through the strenuous, pseudo-acrobatic antics by which ballet dancers keep in trim! But we've adapted Tamara's beauty-making routines into a leaflet of six exercises that will be welcome news to any lady with "hippy" tendencies, as who hasn't? And . . . joy to learn . . . the leaflet is yours, merely for the asking!

This sextet of slimmers begins by streamlining your waistline, and works downward . . . smoothing knotty muscles, melting flabby fat. They hold the secret of svelte hips . . . lean thighs . . . slim ankles. What's more, they can be done in your own boudoir . . . no salon or gym courses, with involved expense, are necessary . . . if you stick to it faithfully, every day.

It's time you got to work . . . spring suits call for slim hips . . . and swim suits this year will reveal your thighs in all their flabby corpulence. The sedentary existence most of us lead, whether careerist or housewife, doesn't make for muscular "tone," and resultant strong, slender silhouettes.

Exclusive and free to readers of this paper are the ballerina exercises . . . so much to the good if you're already limber, and only need a jog to return to suppleness . . . and if you are anything but limber, after winter's indoors living . . . and just plain laziness to boot . . . these dancers' practices will get you back into form in nothing flat . . . at the cost of your following them . . . unfailingly . . . each and every day . . . until streamlined!

But you'll want to work at them . . . they're really fun to do . . . these "port de bras," "grand battlement" and such . . . and included are luxurious cat-stretches . . . after doing them . . . you'll yearn to purr . . . with a feeling of well being!

The ballerinas won't have anything on you for lithe and lovely body planes . . . once this routine, adapted from theirs, takes you in hand. So write Arline Gould today, care of the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope, to receive your free set of ballerina exercises . . . then you're on your way to their enviable below-waist streamlines!

THE REAL "rugged individualist" in the United States is the average woman's hat.

Propagadists, domestic and foreign, may scheme and plot as much and as long as they please, but Miss and Mrs. America's headgear refuses to be influenced.

A "PEACE" HAT
Women Prefer It

If a hat—be it a little bouquet of roses or a large umbrella-like affair—flatters a woman, emphasizes her good features, conceals her bad ones, accents her personality and makes her appear ten years younger than the family Bible shows, the woman is satisfied.

Her hat is a success.

She wears it with supreme confidence.

No monarch's crown was ever half so satisfactory.

Men may scoff and laugh and sneer without making the slightest impression on the feminine mind—or hat.

This year the trend toward individualistic millinery is more marked than ever. Recent fashion "pre-views" in Boston, New York and Los Angeles proved this fact beyond any doubt.

There were tiny discs made of ostrich feather tips and held on the head by gay velvet bands.

There were tiny straws in the popular pastel shades that suggested the styles favored by our mothers and grandmothers way back at the "turn of the century."

There were coronet wreaths of bright flowers, designed to enhance the glamour of pompadour hair-dos.

There were quaintly conceived berets of soft felt with roses of a deeper shade set in the top of the crown.

There were long and short veils that might have come from a fashion book of 1880.

But nowhere was there anything resembling the war helmets, trench caps or gas-masks chapeaux which European designers vainly tried to sell America a year ago.

WAR CHAPEAU
Ladies Reject It

So far as American hats are concerned, the warrior motif is definitely and very wisely blacked-out.

The Boston Easter Parade five weeks hence will glorify the gardens of the good old U. S. A., not the battlefields of Europe.

KATHARINE HEPBURN'S realistic performance in the screen and stage versions of "The Philadelphia Story" inspired many and varied comments and criticisms.

Some liked it; others did not like it, but it is doubtful if Miss Hepburn's acting caused more debate than the way she spells her name.

"Why isn't it Catherine or Catharine?" women ask.

Frankly, we do not know.

Catherine is Katharine, Katherine, Catharene, Catharyn, Kathryn, and sometimes Kay.

"Katy" apparently went out of vogue about the time the widely sung and massacred song "K-K-Katy" came into popularity.

Of course, Catherine is not the only girl's name that has undergone a transformation.

KATHARINE HEPBURN
Inspires Controversy

Grace is now written Grayce. Mary is apt to be Maria or Maye. Edith is almost always Edythe. Dorothy has long since given way to Dorothea.

Sally vanished more or less completely with the termination of World War Number One, and now daughters are frequently christened Sallye.

Irene is a name that might be considered immune from change. Yet it, too, has suffered a little. Today's popular spelling is IREHNE.

The name-changers do not seem to be much concerned with such old-time favorites as Violet, Rose, Lily, Daisy and Buttercup

In fact, the custom of calling girl babies after flowers is considerably frowned-upon today.

We can think of nothing more ridiculous than seeing a woman of ninety sitting in a corner and hearing someone saying:

"How do you feel this morning, Buttercup?"

IN ONE WAY the situation in present day Europe is similar to that of the yesteryear in our old neighborhood in Southern Brooklyn. In South Brooklyn, then, you didn't have to go looking for a fight, either. It was brought to you. "Why in the world must you always be fighting?" my mother once asked me. I answered with just indignation, "Mom, I can't help myself. Every time I go out on the street some kid pushes me off the sidewalk and when I try to get back he pops me on the jaw." My Uncle Al, present during this conversation, said to my mother: "Lily, if you don't have that boy instructed in the manly art of self-defense, he will be punch drunk before he gets out of grammar school." So I took boxing lessons, which enabled me to polish off a few aggressors. Then the declarations of war on me lessened considerably.

PASSING BY: Frank Craven. Brilliant actor and playwright. Native of Boston. Been on the stage 57 years. Wrote a number of stage hits, including "The First Year." Never went to school, being entirely self-educated . . . Jimmy McHugh. Another Boston boy. Responsible for many song hits, best known of which is "I Can't Give You Anything But Love, Baby" . . . Margie Hart. Dancer. Says she gets 700 proposals of marriage a year. "But," says Margie, "all the fellows who ask me to marry them act as if they were doing me a favor. I'm waiting for a man who knows his place." So, sir, if you are thinking of proposing matrimony to Margie you better say: "Margie, will you honor me by becoming my wife" . . . "Gogo" Schiaparelli. Daughter of the celebrated couterier of the Place Vendome, Paris. Repeating syllable names such as Gogo, Fifi, Zaza and Zizi seem very popular in feminine circles. Only man with such a double feature name I ever heard or was that celebrity of the yesteryear. Jojo, the Dog-Faced Boy.

"GETS 700 MARRIAGE PROPOSALS A YEAR"
But Margie Hart Still Waits for "Right Man"

ASIDES: Why doesn't somebody write a song titled "London Bridge Ain't Falling Down" and dedicate to the civilian population of London . . . Men who are quiet in public are usually very talkative at home. Those who talk a lot in public usually shut up like a clam when the little lady tries to get them to do a little fireside chatting.

"AULD LANG SYNE": Have you forgotten Cecil Lean and Cleo Mayfield. Cleo certainly had an expansive smile. Recall Paul Berlenbach, "The Astoria Assassin"? And when the sport scribes speak of the "Old Giants" why do they always forget Frank Bowerman? Some catcher, wasn't he? Remember Bing Crosby singing "I Surrender, Dear" and "Just One More Chance"? That was when he was one of Paul Whiteman's rhythm boys.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

-:- MY DAY

WASHINGTON, Friday — We flew back from New York city yesterday morning and I thought I noticed a certain reticence when I asked if they had any news about Captain Rickenbacker.

Every time we have an accident of that kind, I regret it, because while, on a percentage basis, there are probably as few accidents in flying as there are in other methods of transportation, still mishaps in the air are always more dramatic and one feels that there should be some way of avoiding them.

There have been a number of Army and Navy mishaps, too, lately, and I wonder if we are paying as much attention as we should to the development and experimentation of every possible safety device.

Failures that exist because of the human element cannot be controlled, but if in any way we neglect to experiment with anything which might make for greater safety either in the fighting services or on commercial lines, I think it retards development in a line of transportation which is of great importance to the future.

IN THE AFTERNOON, I spent two hours with a group interested in the development of guidance services for young people in rural areas. These services are developing more rapidly for young people in city schools and in city employment offices, and yet it seems more important in rural areas because so many young people must leave known surroundings to go to unknown places.

I was interested to find that health conditions in rural areas were mentioned so often in the discussion. I am beginning to think that one of the things we need to stress is a community responsibility in the remedying of physical defects during the years of school attendance.

There also seemed to be emerging from the general discussion the fact that we, as a people, often see particular things which need to be done and go ahead and do them. But we neglect to go back to the causes which brought about this particular need and do not think forward to the ultimate end we have in view.

ONE OF THE BEST government programs, the CCC, is a good example of this. We have not yet really faced the problem which brought us the CCC camps and the NYA, namely, the lack of employment opportunities for young people.

Careful investigation might lead us to all kinds of conclusions, even to a reconsideration of our educational system in certain of its phases.

As a nation we don't face the problem.

Secondly, we haven't followed through to the next step after CCC camp employment and training. Boys are healthier. They have had a period of employment. They have received some training. But what next? We still haven't solved that problem of unemployment.

MORRIS GEST ENDS DRAMA HUNT

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, March 1—Morris Gest never has relinquished his hopes of producing a spectacle to match "The Miracle." He has toured the world many times in search of plays and projects with which he again would startle the theater-goers of America . . . Once, in Capri, he found Maxim Gorki, the Russian writer who then was in exile. "Give me the rights to all your plays," Gest pleaded. "I'll do 'Cain and Artema' and 'The Lower Depths,' and 'Yegor Bulitchev' as they've never been done before. I'll excite the world with 'A Country House' and 'Children.' Just give me the rights to your plays—and I'll do anything you say" . . . Gorki remained silent, studying the waters of the Mediterranean . . . "Gorki," Gest continued, fervently, "just give me your plays and anything you want done—will be done" . . . "Anything?" repeated Gorki—pointing to the tip of Mt. Vesuvius in the distance. "All right, then. Make it erupt—right now."

KING ALFONSO of Spain, who died yesterday, was a favorite of the Hollywood stars who visited Spain during his reign . . . When Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford toured Europe, Ambassador Alexander Moore arranged for their coming to the palace. They walked down the long throne room, approaching the dais where Alfonso sat—while Fairbanks kept thinking of the flowery speech he planned to make in response to the ruler's welcome. "Hello" was Alfonso's greeting, "how's Fatty Arbuckle?" . . . Fairbanks replied that he was certain Mr. Arbuckle would appreciate his interest—especially since the homicide in which Fatty's name had been involved threatened to ruin his career. "Would it be all right," asked Fairbanks, "if I tell Arbuckle you asked about him?" . . . "You tell him," said Alfonso, "that it might have happened to any one of us."

AT MANHATTAN CENTER Wednesday night Mayor LaGuardia presented the revue he had written about food stamps and their effect upon the life of the city. Fiorello wrote a scene showing that the stamp bearers would get the same kind of food served on Park Avenue. He called the swanky shopper "Mrs. Uppington." When the Mayor was told that a first name also was required he replied: "Let's see now. She's from Park Avenue? Well, her name will be Newbold"—in honor of Newbold Morris, the socialite head of the City Council . . . LaGuardia also learned that his Mrs. Uppington would have to wear a mink coat, to bring reality to her role. The wife of one of his aides supplied the coat—an expensive one. "Where'd you get this?" the ever-suspicious Fiorello demanded. "Is it yours?" . . . "Oh, no," she reassured him. "I borrowed it from a furrier I know."

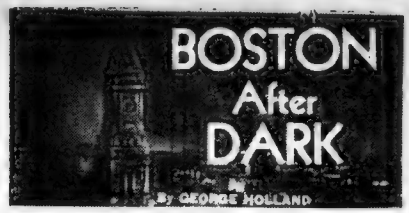
ANOTHER ever-suspicious gentleman of note is Jascha Heifetz. The violinist is descended from a long line of suspicious Russians. One day Heifetz rode in a taxi with his brother-in-law, Playwright Sam Behrman . . . After a few minutes of silence, Behrman politely and softly said: "Wouldn't you like to know?" . . . John O'Hara is memorizing "Who's Who in America." He now can name the college, fraternity and club of almost every famous name in the country . . . The Saturday Review of Literature has a lead article called "What's Wrong With Editors," by Rufus M. Jones, in which he criticizes editors for holding manuscripts too long. Jones' manuscript arrived on Friday and appeared in print on Tuesday. The only complaining letter was from Jones. He lamented, "you made my initial 'H' instead of 'M.'"



AN HOUR BEFORE WALTER E. O'HARA took the wheel of his car for the trip to Providence that was to end in his death, he and Alex Finn, former owner of The Mayfair, crossed Copley Square for a drink . . . They had their drink, a soda for Walter and a milk-shake for Alex.

WHEN THE ONCE-WEALTHY BOSS of Narragansett left Mr. Finn he said that he planned to return to the Copley Plaza, where he was registered, the same night . . . Alex says he seemed cheerful and bubbling with plans . . . To another Bostonian, John T. (Jack) Murray, the mercurial O'Hara confided that he felt uneasy, as if he had a foreboding of tragedy.

THE TWO WERE ON the same train from the South, arriving in Boston Thursday night . . . Walter Kilbourne, Walter's fidus Achates, also was with him . . . (When the bare news of the fatal accident was flashed from Taunton, many feared that Mr. Kilbourne had been in the car with his friend, as they are nearly inseparable).

MR. MURRAY RECALLS that the racetrack promoter had said: "I may see you at the hotel tomorrow or the next night." . . . And, as a sudden afterthought: "If I get back there!" . . . A week ago in Florida, a group of Bostonians, Tom Maren among them, had reason to be thankful that they knew the energetic Walter . . . He enthusiastically tipped a Boston-owned horse, Sundodger, which won at a good price.

THE LAMENTED sportsman-politician-promoter-ex-millionaire-ex-publisher undoubtedly was as colorful a personality as the conservative old Bay State ever spawned . . . Only a few weeks ago, Boston city editors were keeping the telephone wires busy in attempting to check a story that Walter had committed suicide . . .

THE RUMOR was being investigated by Rhode Island newspapers at the same time . . . When Walter was identified as hale and hearty in a New Bedford hotel, the report was dismissed with an explanation by a man close to O'Hara that the former chief of 'Gansett had inspired the rumor himself.

HE HAD MADE A BET, according to one explanation, that he could start a rumor which would result in him reading his own obituary in a newspaper . . . Money was "hay" to Walter . . . Last June he paid one of his infrequent visits to a Boston nightclub, in company with Mr. Kilbourne . . . He was carrying a huge wad of bills.

HE RIFFLED THE PILE for the benefit of this reporter, and there were certainly twenty thousand dollar notes in the bundle, and probably twice that many . . . Yours truly thought that there might be some danger in flashing such a roll in Boston after-dark, and took it upon himself to see that the entertaining visitor was given an unofficial guardian, whose presense in the party was a fairly reasonable guarantee that nothing of a violent nature—professionally—would happen.

AS A REWARD for our pains that evening, we remember being roundly abused for a mythical offense against the majesty of the visitor . . . But the telegram of regrets which came the next day was as effusive—and as sincere—as a love-letter.

FOX BORROWS HIM FOR 'MAN HUNT'

By Louella O. Parsons

Walter Pidgeon

HOLLYWOOD, March 1—If Walter Pidgeon weren't such a nice person I'd begin to dislike him. Every time one of Walter's pictures comes up the gals on my staff all insist on doing the Sunday interview with him and I want to call on him myself. But joking aside, I just heard this morning that the popular Mr. Pidgeon is going visiting off his home lot, MGM, because 20th Century-Fox has borrowed him for "Man Hunt."

Last week there were rumors that this picture, based on Geoffrey Household's "Rogue Male" had been called off because it was too hot. It's all about a retired English captain who goes gunning for a dictator—and while no names are mentioned it doesn't take a mental giant to figure which dictator.

THE OLD FASHIONED siren who made the Northwest Mounted look like an amateur when it came to getting her man, is dead. In her place is a smoother edition, one who gets her man all right but without the obvious effort that our sirens of yesterday put into their man-hunting escapades. Mona Maris, the dark-eyed Argentine actress, belongs to the new school, as she proved in "Flight from Destiny."

Now she goes into "Underground," at Warners in practically the same streamlined vamp—a Gestapo agent. Jeffrey Lynn and Thomas Mitchell, with Vincent Sherman directing, makes "Underground" a carbon copy of "Destiny," so far as cast, director, et cetera, are concerned.

ROBERT STERLING is said to be carrying the torch for Gene Tierney since their elopement plans were called off last week. Be that as it may the young man will be too busy to be a torch carrier because MGM is putting him to work in the biggest role of his career in "Men from the City." Young Sterling is really a good looking boy and they think he's going places at Culver City.

"Men from the City" is an original by Maury Graskin and it's all about a fugitive from the big town who escapes to the country and falls in love. Marsha Hunt, who is doing all right for herself, too, will be the girl in the case.

I DOUBT IF ANY two Academy winners were ever as thrilled as Ginger Rogers and Jimmie Stewart. It did my heart good just to see these two. I ran into them just before they posed for the photographers and Ginger threw her arms around Jimmie's neck and they hugged each other like two kids.

Jimmie put his statuette under his coat, right next to his heart, and took it out only to christen it. The first thing he did when he could think clearly was to put in a long distance call to his mother and father and tell them all about it.

OSCAR SNAPSHOTS: The rafters fairly rang when Jane Darwell walked up to accept her gold Oscar for Ma Joad, the best femme supporting role, showing how much she is loved in the industry. She certainly was dressed up in blue lace with orchids.

Bob Hope was never funnier than when they presented him with a plaque for his many benefits. He was so touched for once he couldn't say a word.

Jack Oakie's Venita was so disappointed that Jack didn't get the gold Oscar and so were his friends, Alice Faye, Cesar Romero, Tyrone Power, who work with him at 20th Century-Fox studios. Better luck next year, Jack.

No one can dispute that Walter Brennan's characterization of Judge Bean in "The Westerner" was a high spot in last year's movies; Fred Quimby, who won the award for "The Milky Way," the first cartoon to wrest honors from Walt Disney, has been in the business even longer than I have and that's a record.

Carole Landis sat next to Major-General J. O. Mauborgne and all his colonels, lieutenants, etc., were much interested in seeing him talk to her animatedly.

I vote for the general on account of he says he reads my column every day; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Carrington, Jr., were with the Hanes, and Mrs. Carrington was voted one of the smartest women at the dinner.

The Darryl Zanuck table had more stars than any other and did the camera bulbs go. The other company stars sat at separate tables—even Jimmie Stewart, who kept modestly in the background.

The Dress

By Alma and Paul Ellerbe

"I DON'T think I can make myself go to the garden party tonight," Helen said, "—with Hal going away tomorrow. Just don't think I can."

"Hal's going away," her mother said, "but he's coming back to marry you."

"What'll he use for bus fare? Out of the salary his uncle's going to pay he'll do well to feed and clothe himself! And what's to keep some California girl—?"

"Helen! You know you don't think—"

"We're not characters out of the poems of Tennyson, but natives of Florida, in A. D. 1940. Keep us apart long enough and our perfectly good love affair'll be nothing but a memory. Hal'll marry another girl and I another man, just because they're there—and there's just nothing any of us can do about it—having no money and no prospect of a job for Hal here. Besides, I've nothing to wear to the garden party."

"I thought you might wear this."

Her mother held up the dress. She had her daughter's coloring and Helen could tell that the dress was startlingly right. It was a quaint old flounced affair, back to which the finger of fashion had just swung.

"Wherever on earth did you get it?"

"Can't you guess? Wait a minute."

Quickly her mother slipped the dress on over the one she wore. One foot slightly forward, shoulders high, chest up, a queenly carriage to the head, she struck a Dellartian pose.

"Great Grandmother Helen, in the old photograph! Did somebody have it copied for you?"

"It's the dress itself. It was sent in that box your Aunt Mary sent. She has always meant to give it to you and this just got around to it. Your grandmother used to wear it two before she went to New York and married there and never came back.

A KIND OLD MAN

Old Mr. Stearns lived in an elaborate jig-sawed house at the end of an avenue of rustling palms, in the midst of [illegible] groves. He was one of [illegible] he liked youth. He was too frail to have it all around him as he used to do, but he managed to give his annual garden party. He and Helen had been [illegible] since she first [illegible]

She wanted to get out of talk to him that night [illegible] party. She knew that a lot of the youngest of his friends were away now whenever they had an excuse, because he was getting deaf, because his great frailty embarrassed them and because, even, sometimes, his mind wandered a little. He had kept it bright and usable as long as he could.

He was very tired tonight, the niece who took care of him said, and really should have canceled the party. He sat in a big wicker chair in a summer-house, his hands resting on the arms of the chair, paper-frail and quieter than she had seen him. She had spoken to him when she arrived, but three times now she walked up to the summer-house to go in and have one of their usual talks and went on by instead. The heart out of her breast was going to California, and she was sunk.

She and Hal walked about, [illegible] probingly full of life and yet like a couple of ghosts; poignantly close together, and yet already three thousand miles apart; to sit at last on a bench in the light of a Chinese lantern overhead. They tried to talk to each other—[illegible] and faltered and failed.

What was there to say? It seemed so profoundly silly and wasteful for life to be behaving like this. They had been two functioning useful human beings living [illegible] in a perfectly all right fashion, and now here they were being torn apart and ruined. She couldn't drag her misery over to the old man under the wistaria blossoms and dump it on him.

But the old man came to her. She looked up to see him hanging there on his cane, staring, transfixed, and she wondered why. And then suddenly she remembered. She jumped up and went to him quickly.

"It must seem to you—this dress—like something out of your own youth."

"How little you know!" he said. Hal had joined her, and they helped him to a seat on the bench.

"Thank you. I thought I was seeing things. I thought I was seeing your grandmother, Helen. That was her dress, wasn't it?"

"Yes." They sat down on either side of him. "Do you really remember it?"

He turned and looked at her. "She might [illegible] here!"

"Did you know her well?"

"What a long, long time ago it's been! No one remembers now that I was engaged to marry her. We were just about your ages." He was almost too tired to sit up, Helen thought.

"Did you—care—a great deal?" Hal said.

"I have never cared for anything before or since as I cared for Helen's grandmother when she wore that dress and we planned to marry and live in this house."

"What broke it off?" Helen said. "Why didn't you marry her?"

"Money. There was enough; but my father didn't think so. The very money he had then I've still got. I shall die soon without even having had to touch it. He thought I ought to be a 'success.' He sent me away to earn more.

"I earned a great deal more, and that made him very happy. But—" He stopped and looked up at the Chinese lantern. "Is it still burning?"

"Yes," Hal said, "it's still burning. Aren't you pretty tired, sir? Hadn't you better go in?"

"Well, maybe I had. What was I saying, Hal? What was it I wanted to tell you?"

"About money. About going away from the girl you loved—as," Hal added deliberately, "I'm going away from her granddaughter, the girl I love, tomorrow."

"Are you?" the old man said, and tried hard to understand what that meant. But suddenly he was too tired. The weary old mind groped for what it meant to Hal to be leaving the girl he loved and stumbled and slipped weakly back onto something else easier to find and hold—though it had happened a lifetime ago. "Yes," he said; "about money. We both made money, my father and I. But don't let them fool you, Hal; money is only money. I was right when I didn't want to go away, and my father was wrong. I should have stayed and married Helen. Your grandmother, Helen, my dear." He turned to Hal. "Hal," he said, "did you tell me that you were going—Did you say something—something about——?"

He crumpled down softly and quietly, like burned tissue paper, and Hal caught him in the crook of his arm.

Hal lifted him easily and carried him between tall, rustling palm trees into the old jig-sawed house and up the wide stairs to his bed.

"He's just very tired," the doctor said when he came. "All this was a bit too much for him. I don't think it's done him any permanent harm, though. He's asleep now—sleeping peacefully and normally. I think he's going to be all right."

But that night the worn old machine that had been ticking ever so faithfully for so many years stopped at last and he died, and Hal and Helen had news of it the next day to make more difficult their last good-bys.

"I wish I could have done something to make him happy before he went," Helen said. "The sight of the dress hurt him so. In some ways he was my best friend. I could have talked to him about you . . .

"When two o'clock comes, I think I'll go down the street and get on the bus and go with you. It would be so simple. They wouldn't put me off, would they?"

"No," he said. "I'd pay your fare. And have—let's see—$10, or nine, left when we got to San Francisco—unless we ate it up on the way out!"

"IN TEN YEARS"

Hal's uncle didn't believe in vacations. There wouldn't be any for the first two years. The job, he had explained, had no present to speak of, but a substantial and valuable future. "In 10 years' time," he had written, telling Hal all about it. "In 10 years' time" had been the theme song of his letter.

"'In 10 years' time,'" Hal began now, bitterly.

"Look," Helen said, "if I begin to cry, kick me on the shins. Otherwise I shan't be able to stop."

She was not a crier. He had never seen her cry. But he looked at her now and saw that it was only half a joke. There was a perilous, still moment when they stood there and looked into each other's eyes and everything seemed to disintegrate and fall in misery around them, and into it, as into so many other tense moments the world around, pedaled a messenger boy.

"It's from his niece," Helen said, "—Caroline."

"The last thing he did," old Mr. Stearns' niece had written, "was to change his will, with me and some of the servants as witnesses. The money I inherited from my father, R. Burton Stearne, held in trust for me then and held in trust for me now by the First National Bank of this city, that has never done me any good, that I have not needed and that would have enabled me to marry the girl I loved if I had had it in time, I will and bequeath to Henry Broadhurst and Helen Darrel, equally, so that they may marry when they please, live where they please, and be happy, please God, now."

HOW HITLER PLANS TO INVADE ENGLAND!

The Greatest Military Attack Ever Planned

DESCRIBED BY

world-famous war correspondent

Sheean has covered every war front for the last 15 years. He saw Barcelona fall; he followed Hitler into Austria. He is the author of "Personal History" and "Not Peace But A Sword."

Sheean tells where and how the Nazis will strike, why the odds are in the sky and how Hitler will use "a ceiling of planes" in attacking. He reveals why poison gas may be used, how the Nazis have rehearsed the attack and the power of Hitler's "matchless" weapon. A vivid preview of this gigantic military smash as it is planned—

The land was formerly part of the Bradley estate, comprising a portion of the estate formerly used as a polo field, and a race track. In those days it was the rendezvous of polo players and horsemen, throughout the United States. Such men as Fred Stone and Henry Davenport the famous cartoonist, spent their week-ends in Hingham enjoying polo with their hosts. Mr. F. B. Bradley was one of the original importers of famous Arabian horses in this country, and many horse shows were held on this site. People came from surrounding counties and the scene resembled the social gatherings made famous at Epsom Downs

Alfred Cole, Treasurer Hingham Homesteads, Inc.

Among the famous Arabian horses imported and bred in this property was the famous white Arabian used by Rudolph Valentino in the movie picture "The Sheik." The Arabian horse of our new ambassador to England, John G. Winant, came from Bradley horses, and those now belonging to the University of California were purchased by Bradley and given to the Kellogg interests. Also, many famous trotters were bred and trained on this spot.

FOUNDED IN 1635

Hingham was founded in 1635, incorporated in 1645, and has always been maintained as a high class residential community. The Bradley family started to acquire property in this section as early as 1876 and its ownership has grown to incorporate lands approximating 500 acres. This land is now being developed by the Bradley Park Development, Inc., into a residential community.

Bradley Woods now consists of 100 houses under construction among tall trees which have been treated and preserved as a part of the original estate. These houses flank 60 feet in width to the entrance to the street and are so arranged that no heavy traffic can lessen the enjoyment, peacefulness or safety of the community. All the houses are provided with garages and bus service will be available to and from Quincy, Hingham Station, Hull, and through the centers connecting other points. There are many churches and other recreational and educational facilities nearby, and it is contemplated to establish a store and community center within a quarter of a mile of Bradley Woods.

ON SOUTH SHORE

The slogan of the developers, "Midway Between Work and Play," is especially appropriate, for Bradley Woods is on the South Shore, only 30 minutes by automobile from the center of Boston. The property provides a private beach, boating and mooring facilities, and plans are now under way for the construction of bathhouses, tennis courts and other recreational features. It is within a few minutes drive of three golf clubs and four yacht clubs.

The houses in Bradley Woods have received outstanding and singular recognition by being awarded "Registered Homes" certificates by the Federal Housing Bank System. This is the only sub-division in New England to be awarded this honor and is a testimonial to the high standard of design in material use and construction.

Fall River Burns Bonds; Debt All Paid

FALL RIVER, March 1 (AP)—In a simple ceremony in front of city hall, Mayor Alexander C. Murray today set ablaze canceled refunding act bonds signalizing the city's final payment of $3,500,000 borrowed 10 years ago.

Unable to meet its obligations in 1931, Fall River was forced to borrow the money and a State appointed board was set up to take charge of municipal finance.

FHA Program In State Shows Big Jump in '40

694 homes were started in Massachusetts under the FHA program from July 1, 1940, through Feb. 15, 1941 FHA State Director John F. Malley announced today.

This was a gain of 42% over the corresponding period a year earlier, one of the largest gains for any state in the country.

The record here indicates the important contribution being made by private builders and private lending institutions operating under the FHA program to the task of supplying housing for defense workers.

MOTOR AND OUTING NEWS

By J. Leo Sugrue
Automobile Editor

EVENING AMERICAN, SATURDAY, MARCH 1, 1941

MOTOR INDUSTRY BUCKLES DOWN, PRODUCES MATERIAL FOR DEFENSE

DETROIT, Mich., March 1—At least 150,000 men will be working on national defense contracts of the automobile companies by the latter part of the present year, and between 100,000 and 200,000 more men will be employed by the time its bomber parts program gets in full swing, according to a progress report issued in pictorial form today by the Automobile Manufacturers Association.

Every company in the automobile industry now is represented in production of one or more defense items, the report shows, with the load growing rapidly.

Special recognition is given the "energetic and devoted efforts" of the hundreds of technical men in engineering and tool departments, on construction jobs and esewhere, on construction jobs and elsewhere, cation have pushed the preparations for production "as never before."

The report summarizes the following items:

1—Airplane engines from the automobile industry have been going into service since July, 1940; are coming out now at the rate of 350 a month.

2—Two new airplane engine plants are in the final stages of construction and equipment; will be producing this summer.

3—Ammunition components of many types, such as shells, shell casings, fuses, bomb and torpedo parts are being produced in several automobile plants.

4—Plants will shortly be ready for machine gun production and several companies are working on parts and accessories for big guns.

5—Thanks to construction workers who carried forward even under heavy snow and other comparable preparatory effort, tank production will begin well ahead of schedule.

6—Six companies are actively at work producing or preparing to produce airplane body, wing and tail parts.

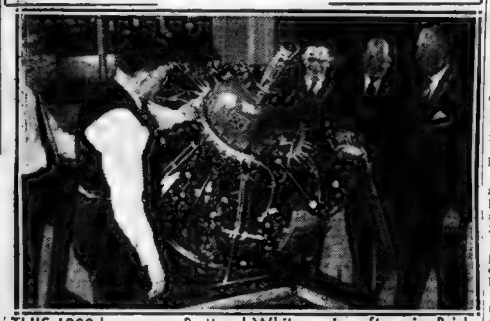
7—Continuous deliveries, at a rising rate, are being made on power plants for Navy vessels.

8—Extensive and systematic subcontracting of precision-made parts for aircraft engines and many other defense products has been resorted to as a means of expediting and enlarging production.

9—Material "bottlenecks" have been attacked through erection by members of the industry, of foundries for magnesium and aluminum, both now entering production.

10—Despite all these added jobs, not in the regular line of automotive work, the industry's assembly lines are turning out 13,000 special cars and trucks for the U. S. Army each week; expect to step this rate up to 20,000 to pace the Army's expansion, and to have more than a quarter-million vehicles in service by the latter part of this year.

BUICK BUILDS AIRCRAFT ENGINES



THIS 1200 horsepower Pratt and Whitney aircraft engine Buick will build for national defense is shown in its new $31,000,000 Chicago plant. The new factory will produce 500 engines a month for Uncle Sam. Harlow H. Curtice, (extreme right) is inspecting the huge motor with other Buick officials.

500 Hub Tire Dealers At Goodrich Parleys

B. F. Goodrich officials have been conducting a series of important meetings in the New England territory and the final two were staged this week in Boston, at the Kenmore.

Highlight of the conference included the unveiling of the 1941 Goodrich tire and automotive accessory lines, and discussions of business prospects during the coming selling season as well as the role the rubber industry is playing in the national defense program.

L. L. Black

Because of the importance of rubber in defense plans, a special demonstration was made to show how Ameripol, the new synthetic rubber is made. Ameripol is already being fashioned into passenger car tires for American motor car owners to ride on in 1941. It is also used in the manufacture of numerous oil and heat resisting articles such as hose, tubing and molded goods, L. L. Black said.

The 500 Boston tire dealers were welcomed by L. L. Black, B. F. Goodrich district manager. Other speakers were: J. A. W. White, general supervisor; H. C. Ackerman, petroleum representative; F. T. Reardon, truck and bus manager, and E. J. Schmidt, sales promotion manager.

Ford Expert Explains Use of Elements in Car

The average motorist has read much in recent years about the use of such unusual metals as iridium, palladium and cadmium in his automobile, but the chances are 100 to 1 that neither he nor the garage mechanic around the corner know where very many of these rare metals are located on the car.

A metallurgist at the Ford Motor Company has volunteered the answers, and in doing so has produced a number of other interesting facts which may be news to the average car owner.

For example, every automobile contains some metals that are more valuable than gold and silver. The quantities generally are very small but the metals play a big part in performance.

CHECKS TABLE

Checking the atomic table, the Ford metallurgist revealed that of the 92 known elements, nearly half of them go into the car. Of those elements not used by the motor manufacturer, several are rare earths such as ytterbium and yttrium which have no practical use of any kind, while many others are rare gases such as helium and argoin.

A list of the unusual metals in the car, in addition to such precious metals as iridium, palladium, platinum and rhodium, includes cadmium, titanium, molybdenum, columbium and beryilium, to say nothing of tungsten and silver.

According to the Ford expert, some of these metals were more expensive than gold before the rise of the motor industry increased the demand and brought prices down. But palladium, as well as iridium, platinum and rhodium, still are more expensive than gold. Palladium is the rare metal that, combined with gold, makes the familiar white gold. In the Ford car it is used in contact points in the voltage regulator.

PARTIAL SURVEY

Here is a partial survey of precious and unusual metals used on the Ford car, with their respective locations:

RUTHENIUM—Alloyed with platinum in contact points for regulators.

IRIDIUM—Alloyed with platinum in contact points for gages.

RHODIUM—Alloyed with platinum in contact points in regulators.

PALLADIUM—Alloyed with silver in contact points in regulators.

PLATINUM—Alloyed with iridium in contact points.

GOLD—Used in infra-red heat lamps to dry body enamel.

SILVER—Alloyed with cadmium in connecting rod bearings; also alloyed with copper, nickel or palladium in contact points.

TUNGSTEN—Used as steel alloy in valve inserts; also as pure metal in ignition and horn contact points.

MOLYBDENUM—Used in alloy steel transmission and differential gears.

NICKEL—Used in alloy steel transmission gears; also in stainless steel trim and nickel plating on bright metal parts.

CHROMIUM—Used in alloy steels in gears, springs, and bearings; also in plating bright metal and stainless steel parts.

CADMIUM—Used in bearings, plated parts and red pigments.

TIN—Used in bearings and solder.

BERYLLIUM—Used as copper alloy for hardening.

TELLURIUM—Used as modifier in bearing babbitt.

SELENIUM—Used in red taillight glass and red pigments.

ANTIMONY—Used in lead alloys in battery.

MANGANESE—Used in iron and steel alloys.

COBALT—Used in tools.

VANADIUM—Used in tools and dies.

DODGE PROGRAM OUTLINED BY COSART ON VISIT HERE

Lee D. Cosart, salesmanager of the Truck division of Dodge division of Chrysler Corporation, was the principal speaker at the big Dodge meeting held yesterday at the Statler.

Distributors, dealers, and their sales forces gathered to hear the sales presentation and merchandising plans designed to adapt the dealers' retail operations to new, faster tempo.

Lee Cosart

F. E. Seaman, New England regional manager for Dodge, welcomed Mr. Cosart to Boston and introduced him to the dealers. Cosart demonstrated and explained the ambitious program developed for the Dodge dealers late-winter and early-spring activities.

Part of the session was devoted to discussions of factory, co-operative and extra advertising of new and used passenger cars and trucks. Similar important meetings are to be held in 28 additional key cities and when the 29 major meetings are over, similar gatherings will be taking place under supervision of managers of the 16 regions that make up the Dodge field organization.

Pontiac Sales Break Record

Charles N. Kane, zone manager for Pontiac, today reported record-breaking sales for the second 10-day period of February. New England dealers delivering 655 new 1941 Pontiac Torpedoes, and 1450 used cars, an increase over the same period last year of 300 per cent. The first 20 days' sales in February show an increase of 203 per cent over the same period in 1940.

Hudson Reports Business Is Brisk

Washington's Birthday was a huge success for Hudson, declared F. A. Ordway, president and treasurer of Henley-Kimball Co., distributors, who reports 39 definite orders were taken.

Business has been brisk ever since the holiday and indicates this is a "banner Hudson year, says Ordway."

AMBERS-JENKINS FIRST DUEL SETTLED THE MATTER

No more gallant champion ever defended any title in boxing than Lou Ambers, the lad from Herkimer, N. Y., who tackled Lew Jenkins for the second time in Madison Square Garden last night and lost for the second time.

LOU AMBERS

Nobody can question the "Herkimer Hurricane's" courage, His judgment is something else again. When this same Jenkins blasted him into what most of us thought was fistic oblivion a few months ago, the consensus was that it was all for the best.

The majority felt that "Little Lou-Lou" had got a fair shake against a difficult game and that he should be satisfied with his not unpretentious record. Apparently we reckoned without our host from Herkimer.

For, whereas we read Lugi out of the party after his decisive defeat at the hands of Jenkins, he gave it another fling last night to his sorrow.

A fling to which he was eminently entitled off his record, albeit it was doubtful that he would be able to reverse the previous verdict against the lithe Texas tornado.

Game as he is and tricky as he was, it was hard to see how Ambers could even hope to reverse the decision of his previous meeting with the skinny, dynamiting Texan.

If there is one thing that Jenkins can do better than another it is hit, and if there is one fellow above another that he figured to be able to hit pretty much at will, it was Ambers.

Thus one is inclined to wonder why they fought again, except that it is a sort of unwritten law of the fight racket that a champion is entitled to his second time around.

Which this second meeting with Jenkins was for Ambers. His second, and last, chance as a top-flight fighter. Indeed his last chance to prove that he was not thoroughly washed up, as most of us believe.

Because the consensus along Jacobs Beach was that Lou had even less chance against Lew than he had in their previous meeting. And, goodness knows, plenty of us accurately predicted the outcome of that one.

This column said then, and is brash enough to repeat now, that Jenkins hits too hard for the veteran Ambers. And that therefore, nobody would have to wait longer than the first solid punch of the fight to realize that the boss is the boy from Texas.

Since that was true of their first meeting, it was not reasonable to expect that anything had happened to change it for their second.

If Ambers were a youngster coming along to challenge a veteran champion, the situation would have been different. But, since he was a well-worn veteran and ex-champion, challenging a fellow who knocked him out once before . . . Well, what can you reasonably think, save that pugilistic history repeated itself last evening?

In yesterday's essay we perhaps dismissed too lightly the chances of all save Charley Howard's Mioland in the hundred thousand-dollar Santa Anita Handicap this afternoon. Our reason for doing so is that the luck of Howard's horses has been so remarkable as to become a gag.

The oldest axiom in sports is to string with a winner until he loses. Or, in other words, with a champion until he is beaten.

With that in mind, we remarked, half jocularly, that the theme song of the "Hundred Grander" at Santa Anita probably would prove to be "Mioland, My Mioland."

Mioland is Howard's current handicap champion, the third of the three aces with which he confidently expects to set a record that probably never will be equalled in the race for the biggest pot of all.

And, if it keeps on raining rain in California, "Unlucky Charlie" probably will not hope in vain for his third Santa Anita winner in as many years.

But, since it rains and clears on the just and unjust alike, we are entitled to believe that the Howard luck will not last forever.

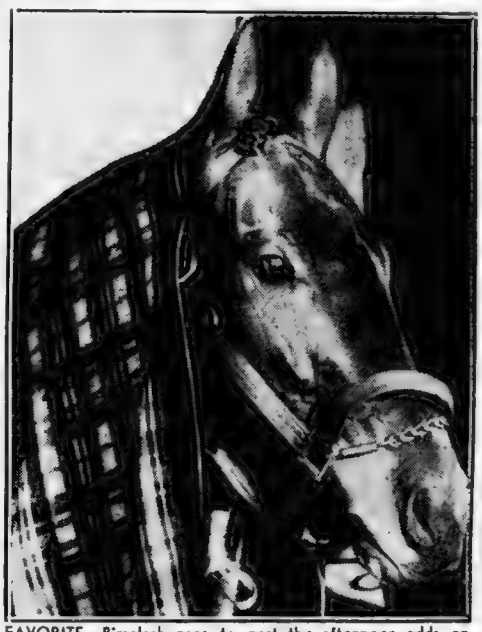
Challedon, just coming around to his top form, may have something to say about the gallop for the "Hunnert Gran," and if he isn't ready, there are several others that may be if the going is reasonably fast.

So, being a bitter ender in such matters, we are going to make the rash prediction that Howard won't win his third straight hundred thousand dollar purse at Santa Anita today.

Just what will beat him, we haven't determined. But we are serene in the belief that something will. Watch and see.

Mudder Mioland Choice For $100,000 'Cap

LOS ANGELES, March 1 (AP)—Mud, moisture and Mioland, two elements and a horse, added an "M" to racing today as the curtain rolled up on another performance of turfdom's extravaganza—the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap.



FAVORITE—Bimelech goes to post this afternoon odds on favorite in the $50,000 Widener. It ought to be romp with Jockey Don Meade up. Only Bimelech's presence saves the race from mediocrity.

Mioland the mudlark, bred far from the birthplace of aristocratic Kentucky cousins but an equine nabob nevertheless, was the people's choice as upward of 60,000 fans turned out for the seventh running of the world's richest money race.

The Oregon 4-year-old, not the class of the field because Maryland's Challedon, handicap king the last two years also was an entry was the rightful favorite off recent performances.

FORECAST SHOWERS

He won three of four previous start here, ran up to every asking over distance and proved convincingly he could go the mile and a quarter grind of the big 'cap.

"There was rain in the air, occasional showers forecast, and soft going under hoof, the result of downpours yesterday. Entries closed with 17 named to go postward. Four of these, Woof Woof, Wedding Call, Rough Pass and Bolinghrok, were considered doubtful starters in case the racing strip turned up thickly blanketed in mud.

There was a possibility also, that Porter's Cap, coupled with Mioland as a C. S. Howard entry, might be scratched before post time (approximately 4:30 p. m. P. S. T.). Porter's Cap, a 3-year-old flyer in the mud and winner of the $50,000 Santa Anita Derby was entered chiefly as an ace in the hole in case injury or illness forced last minute withdrawal of his stablemate.

CHALLEDON OFF FORM

Buddy Haas, husky, hustling jockey had the leg up on Mioland at 124 pounds. Only the great star, Challendon, shouldered more weight, 130 pounds with Georgie Woolf in the saddle.

Challedon went to the barrier admittedly not at peak form. In his last out here he ran seventh to Mioland in a prep for the handicap and turned in a sluggish performance. At top condition the big fellow would have been the overwhelming favorite from the start. A few of the faithful still liked his chances.

$87,100 FOR WINNER

Tabbed as sharpest contenders behind Mioland were General Manager with Jack Westrope likely to ride at 110 pounds; Porter's Cap, if started, with Johnny Adam up at 104 pounds; Fairy Chant, fleet filly, ridden by Harry Richards at 112 pounds; Can't Wait, 118 pounds and Jockey Basil James; Royal Crusader, in at 107 pounds and Allen Gray in the saddle; Hysterical, 112 pounds with Eugene Rodriguez, and Challedon.

The race is worth $87,100 to the winner, $20,000 to the second place horse; $10,000 for the third, and $5000 for fourth.

Pre-race speculation centered around the possibility of Charley Howard scoring a Santa Anita handicap triple. Last year he brought in the mighty Seabiscuit and the year before, Kayak II.

BIMELECH'S PRESENCE SAVES WIDENER FROM MEDIOCRITY

MIAMI, Fla., March 1 (AP)—They are running the $50,000 Widener Cup Race today, and if it isn't won by Bimelech, the Kentucky beauty, there will be a lot of headaches tonight in Hialeah Park.

Bimelech promised to go to the post about a 1-to-2 favorite over the big field opposing him in the mile and one-quarter test, despite the fact he was top-weighed at 126 pounds. His presence in the lineup saved the rich race from mediocrity.

Bimelech is the sort of big picture horse that is loved by the public almost as greatly as by his venerable owner, Col. E. R. Bradley, who was in nearby Palm Beach but too infirm to see today's race.

In the last two days an earnest poll of the operators who invest $100 and better on each race has failed to uncover one who did not

Wilson Picks Bim, Mioland

Dave Wilson, turf handicapper for this paper, rides with Bimelech and Mioland in this afternoon's big turf classic.

But if it comes up mud at Hialeah Park, Wilson will jump to the Circle M. Ranch's Get Off to capture the $50,000 Widener Cup Race. For Bimelech is a notorious poor runner in the gumbo.

Mioland shapes up in Wilson's book equally as well on any kind of a track to win the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap.

Judge Orders Race Fix Jury to Be Picked

LOS ANGELES, March 1 (INS)—Selection of a jury began late yesterday in the trial of six men accused of conspiracy in the $1,000,000 race fixing scandal on California tracks after a legal tangle over an attorney's status had delayed procedure.

Joseph Orloff was attorney of record for two of the defendants, Bernard and William J. Einstoss, brothers. Because the attorney had been called for induction in the draft, he did not appear at counsel table, although he was seated among the spectators.

ORDERED TO CONTINUE

Orloff, during the discussion as to whether he should act, took matters into his own hands by filing a motion in Federal Court declaring he would "suffer great and irreparable injury if he is not inducted into the armed forces of the United States."

The District Attorney's office, however, asked that he should not be inducted into the army at this time.

Superior Court Judge Charles W. Fricke settled the argument by refusing to substitute attorneys and ruling that Orloff must continue with the case. He then ordered selection of the jury to proceed.

Other defendants besides the Einstoss brothers are Saul Greenberg, Benjamin Chapman, I. W. Kivil and James Sangbush, alias J. J. Murphy. They are accused of bribing jockeys and using other methods to "throw" races in betting coups.

EXPOSED BY BOARD

The alleged illegal gambling syndicate was exposed by the California Horse Racing Board last November after six jockeys testified they had accepted bribes, ranging from $100 to $200, from the ring to "pull" races at Del Mar, Hollywood Park, Tanforan and Bay Meadows race tracks.

Terry Moore Named Cardinals' Captain

ORLANDO, Fla., March 1—George Archie, who batted .324 for Seattle last year, stepped off a train yesterday into a job as regular first baseman of the Washington Senators—if he can hold it. The gaunt redhead disclosed he never had been east of Cleveland before.

AVALON, Cal.—The Chicago Cubs are about ready to send out a searching party for Pitcher Claude Passeau, who hasn't been heard from in many days, although he signed his contract long ago. Club officials voiced the belief Holdout Hank Leiber is delaying signing simply to avoid training routine on Catalina Island. He came to terms last spring just as the Cubs were leaving their base here.

• • •

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Terry Moore, just about the best centerfielder in the National League, will be the new field captain of the St. Louis Cardinals, succeeding Pepper Martin. The job carries with it a bonus of $500.

HAVANA—Bill Terry ordinarily doesn't snarl when the New York Giants lose—and sometimes not when they win. But he came off the diamond after their 4-3 loss to Brooklyn yesterday cheerful all the fact that Substitute Bill Jurges played the entire game without any return of the dizziness that plagued him after last summer's beaning.

ANAHEIM, Cal.—Connie Mack is worried about an injury to Wally Moses' shoulder, received in an automobile accident while the outfielder was on his way to camp with Al Simmons. He has ordered more X-ray pictures made.

LAKELAND, Fla.—Although the Detroit Tigers' camp doesn't open officially until tomorrow, Manager Del Baker has been shepherding several early arrivals through light limbering-up drills. Murray Franklin, Beaumont rookie who is a candidate for Pinky Higgins' third base job, reported yesterday.

TAMPA, Fla.—Infielders joined the Cincinnati Reds' batterymen today for the first full workout of the world champions. Manager Bill McKechnie's shortstop worries were relieved by the arrival last night of Eddie Joost, who still is a holdout. He was to confer today with General Manager Warren Giles.

• • •

FT. MYERS, Fla.—Most impressive of the Cleveland Indians' rookies so far has been a 21-year-old Texan, Jack Conway, a shortstop who played for Wilkes-Barre last year. Under the new option rule, he can't be farmed out without waivers and so has a good chance of staying with the tribe.

PASADENA, Cal.—Manager Jimmy Dykes is worrying that some of his Chicago White Sox may eat themselves out of condition.

"They've been starving themselves all winter, but now that the club is paying for their meals, anything is likely to happen," he observed.

Three fatties, Taft Wright, Jules Solters and Ed Smith, were put through a boiling process at Hot Springs, Ark., before coming to camp.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—Fredy Haney is showing concern over the St. Louis Browns' lone absent pitcher, Johnny Allen. The temperamental pickup from Cleveland is signed, but is nearly a week overdue in reporting. He was said to be delayed by personal business.

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal.—The Pittsburgh Pirates felt easier about their 1941 chances today after watching Johnny Gee and Russ Bauers, their sore arm pitchers, shoot over an assortment of curves and fireballs without giving their arms even an ache.

CRIMSON NEAR WINTER WINDUP

The end of the trail is facing most of the Harvard winter sports teams as the last big week-end of the winter season will take place today.

The in-and-out basketball team will face the Columbia Lions in a league clash this evening at the Harvard gym at 8:30, the swimmers will duck with the weak Pennsylvania team an hour earlier at Cambridge, and the varsity hockey team will be at New Haven for the first shellacking in its two-game series with its ancient foe.

The other Harvard teams will be on foreign fields, but the fresh men face a full calendar of events today, the h ghlight of which will be a basketball game with the potent Dean Academy five at 7 o'clock on the local floor.

Columbia walloped the Cantabs in their first court meeting and should do the same this evening, except for the fact that the Feslermen at Cambridge seem to win when nobody expects that they will.

The invading quintet, not conceded a look-in at title chances when the season started, is in second place, the only team with a mathematical chance of overtaking Dartmouth for the league trophy. Coach Paul Mooney of the Lions will bank on a veteran team which has Hasslinger and Cerrone as leading scorers.

The Crimson five is ready to upset with Buckley and Romano the leading sharp-shooters. Coach Wes Fesler will not change his lineup despite the fine work of Homer Peabody in the Harvard debacle with B. U. this week.

Penn's swimming team should not offer much competition and will give the Crimson a good chance to warm up for the Yale meet. The Harvard mermen have only dropped a close meet with Princeton this year.

The Crimson sextet, now proud possessor of two wins in more than a dozen contests, has put the game with Yale in the hands of the fates this year. Yale, the current leader on the top end of the Quad League, will find Harvard determined, but that is about all. Yale should hang the Cantabs to the rafters this evening.

Basketball lineups:

Romano, f.	f., Mellivennan
Rotschild, c.	c., Hassilnger
Finegan, g.	g., Will
Buckley, g.	g., Primich

Four Eagles Take Local Bow In Pics' Colors

Local amateur hockey fans will get their first peek at the quartet of Boston College Eagles' ice stars in Olympics' uniforms tonight at the Garden against the Washington Eagles in the first of a two-game series. The concluding game between the two clubs will be played tomorrow afternoon at the Garden.

The new players, Capt. Johnny Pryor, Ray Chalson, Al "Fishy" Dumond and Bob Mee, all Greater Boston boys, made their debut with the Boston team last Wednesday night in Baltimore. All four played an important role in the 4-to-4 tie with the Orioles. They collected two goals and two assists.

Coach Hago Harrigton will use the line of Pryor, Chalson and Dumond as his third wave tonight with Mee on defense, teaming with Al Yourkewicz.

With the return to action of Gerry Desrosiers, Harrington will have his full strength for the week-end series. Desrosiers will center the second line of Harpo Walsh and Jack Costello. The "Green Wave" of Sullivan, Spain and Guihord will start the game.

Mr. Boston

By JACK CONWAY

MIAMI, Fla., March 1 — With Bill Terry's New York Giarts training here, winter visitors are getting their baseball as well as their horse and dog racing early . . . In recent years, big league clubs have passed up Miami as a training spot as they thought there were too many distractions for ball players.

After the poor showing the Giants made in 1940, Manager Terry probably concluded that a lively community could not injure the chances of his athletes and that it might help them . . . Joe Cronin's Red Sox will be in here on March 8 and 9 for games with the Giants . . . The Red Sox welcome a trip to the Magic City . . . The Sox will later hop to Havana for a series of games with the Brooklyn Dodgers . . . While in Havana, the Sox will stop at the Nacional Hotel which is one of the swankiest spots on the island.

Edward S. Doherty, Jr., director of public relations for the Sox, is doing an excellent job during the press conferences . . . Joe Cronin always sits in with the members of the fourth estate and is very frank in answering questions that are shot at him . . . Hughey Duffy is at Sarasota with the Sox . . . The holder of a .438 batting mark when he played in the big leagues will be able to give valuable advice to the Sox youngsters as well as to the veterans . . . It was Duffy who suggested the changes in Lou Finney's batting stance that transformed a weak hitter into a .320 clouter . . . Joe Hines, operator of the Twentieth Century billiard parlors on Summer st., Mrs. Hines, Atty. John Walsh of Jamaica Plain and Mrs. Walsh motored to the Red Sox training camp at Sarasota after taking in the races here . . . Joe Hines has done much to increase New England interest in billiards and in bowling.

Beauty Spots in Florida

THE EAGLES NEST outside of Clearwater on the West Coast is one of the most beautiful places I have seen in Florida . . . It was originally a private estate, and its owner spent many years in the East Indies and in Japan . . . There is a Japanese pagoda and an ancient Japanese mill wheel on the property . . . The estate is studded with marvelous flower gardens which rival some of those Park Commissioner William Long has placed in our Public Gardens . . . Every tropical tree and bush is on the place . . . There is one section which for a better name I called the Avenue of Palms . . . As one walks along a grassy road, palm trees form a shield from the sun . . . There are 50 palms trees on either side of this road . . . It reminds me of the back road to North Scituate from Cohasset that runs past Hugo's . . . On the Cohasset road magnificent trees furnish summer shade.

The estate overlooks Clearwater Bay . . . At the highest point on the property there is a tree in which two bald-headed eagles lived for more than 20 years . . . They would sit on a branch in their lofty perch, and pounce down upon their prey.

Florida golf courses try to make you forget your poor scores by giving you flashes of rare beauty . . . At the Clearwater Country Club while walking from a green to the next tee one passes between shade trees and magnificent flower beds . . . Persons who like to take color films find it a perfect spot for them . . . When I took time out to speak about the numerous types of flowers in one gorgeous display, Mrs. Boston told me that almost all of the same flowers were in our garden at Scituate if I would only come home early enough some night to see them.

"Lefty" Gomez Out to Win 20 Games

"LEFTY" GOMEZ of the Yanks pitching staff has been telling sports writers at St. Pete that he is confident he will win 20 ball games this year . . . If he does, Joe McCarthy's club will be very much in the pennant fight . . . It is front page news in Florida when the Bees encounter rain or other unsatisfactory weather conditions at San Antonio . . . Florida is still burned up over the fact Bob Quinn hoisted his athletes first out of St. Pete and then Bradenton and took them to San Antonio.

The local newspapers are also front paging bad weather news from the North and from California . . . They overlook the fact the last two years have been the coldest Florida has had in the memory of the oldest inhabitant . . . When I first visited Florida 20 years ago nobody ever mentioned heated rooms and apartments . . . Nowadays people won't stop at a hotel or lodging place that does not furnish warm radiators as well as orange juice.

There are autos in Florida from every state and from Canada and many of the islands off the eastern coast . . . The main street looks like Hyannis or Provincetown in summer as far as visiting firemen are concerned . . . Massachusetts is among the leaders . . . New York, Michigan, Ohio and Pennsylvania are its chief rivals.

I met Herb Merrill, pal of Willie Hoppe and a billiard champion in his own right, at Clearwater . . . Herb, like many other billiard stars, is also a good golfer and is fast mastering golf croquet . . . A good billiard player is usually a deadly putter . . . I can remember Johnny Buckley, who knows his billiards, outputting Jack Sharkey, Col. Dave Egan and myself at the Bay Shore Country Club at Miami Beach at the time of the Sharkey-Stribling bout.

New England had its representatives in the hotel business . . . Mrs. Katherine Hanrahan Dwyer of Quincy adds a South Shore touch to the management of the Jungle Hotel outside of St. Pete.

Jimmy Foxx and Joe Cronin have started their spring golf matches . . . Cronin and Foxx do not believe golf interferes with a player's batting . . . The opinion is not shared by Manager Leo Durocher of the Dodgers who has convinced Joe Medwick he should put aside his golf clubs until the 1941 baseball season ends.

'BIMMY' SAVES WIDENER FROM MEDIOCRITY

intend to bet on Bimelech and take his modest return. The $2 fancy, like you and I, was wavering between Hash, the second favorite, and Haltal, the red-hot possibility, hoping to win at long odds.

HASH CHIEF THREAT

It looked as if the greatest crowd of the modern history of Hialeah, even eclipsing the 29,000-odd that witnessed the Flamingo Stakes a week ago, might pack the picture plant. Every seat had been bought in advance.

Hash, chief threat to Bimelech, ran him a poor second in a special race at a mile and an eighth only a week ago. So the only possibilities there are (1) that Hash was only being given a breather, sort of feeling Bimelech out, or (2) that Hash can run that extra eighth of a mile faster than the big horse. Neither was given much credence around Hialeah.

Hash, at least, has one big victory to his credit. He beat Challedon last summer at Narragansett—a triumph he still is trying to live up to. The other entries today, so far as form or class or past performance was concerned, did not compare to Bimelech, and a victory for any one of them would prove a great upset.

MEADE ON BIMELECH

There was sure to be a rush of small wagers on Haltal, sufficient to drive his price down to about 4 to 1. The fact that he was being ridden by young Conn McCreary, the meeting's leading jockey, helped boost him into prominence.

Otherwise, there were such runners as The Chief, long since branded a fast starter but a quitter; Big Pebble, winner of the second half of the McLennan in slower time than Haltal's; Shot Put, last year's distance champion; Sickle T., beaten here repeatedly this winter, and others, making about 10 expected to start.

Freddie Smith, the Cuban-born boy who rode Bimelech in all his races last year, was missing from the saddle today, his place taken by Don Meade. Eddie Arcaro was up on Hash.

Slammin' Sam Wins Open

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 1 (AP) — Slammin' Sam Snead from Hot Springs, won the $5000 St. Petersburg Open Golf Tournament with two strokes to spare.

Snead had rounds of 68 and 72 to clip five strokes off par with a 72-hole total of 279.

Snead's long game was so much better than that of the others in the blustery weather that he could afford to miss a half dozen birdie putts.

Ben Hogan, Hershey, Pa., tied at 271 with Herman Barron, White Plains, N. Y., Chick Harbert, Battle Creek, Mich., and Harold McSpaden, Winchester, Mass., winner of the Thomasville Open last week.

Harmon Blocker Named Coach

CLINTON, N. Y., March 1 (AP)—Forest Evashevski, blocking back for All-America Tommy Harmon, is the new head football coach at Hamilton College.

President William H. Cowley announced here the University of Michigan's 1940 captain has signed a three-year contract. He succeeds Arthur R. Winters, resigned.

Tigers, Jeffs Battle for Squash Title

WILLIAMSTOWN, March 1 (AP)—Princeton and Amherst will battle it out today in the semi-final and final rounds of the national intercollegiate squash championships.

Top-seeded Charlie Brinton, national singles champion, and Stan Pearson, his second seeded teammate, both from Princeton, battled their way into the semi-final bracket in tussles with Dick Orr, Harvard, and Ed Davis, Temple, respectively, in the quarter-finals.

The two Lord Jeff Davis victors in the quarter-finals were unseeded Art Palmer, who defeated Johnny Humes, Princeton's fourth-seeded sophomore, and Willy Lamar, seventh seeded, who overturned third-ranked Eddie Nickerson of Harvard.

GIANTS SELL SEEDS

HAVANA, Feb. 29 (AP)—Outfielder Bob (Suitcase) Seeds was sold to Baltimore of the International League today by the New York Giants.

LONGSHOT — Red Howell, veteran jockey, is looked upon at Hialeah as the one pilot who can bring longshot Robert L. in a winner in the $50,000 Widener. Bimelech has the race sewed up on paper but with a little racing luck Robert L. might be able to upset with Howell in the saddle.

Kaplan K. O.'s Dunn in Third

Mike Kaplan of Roxbury, fighting Boston for the first time in 18 months, knocked out Irish Eddie Dunn of New York in three rounds at the Garden before a slim gathering of 2219 spectators.

Dunn—who should spell his name Done—was never in the running from the opening gong, and it was just a matter of time as to when Kaplan would catch up with him and flatten him—that he did after 1 minute and 28½ seconds of fighting in the third session.

Abe Denner won on a technical K. O. in five rounds when Florian Desmarais suffered a bad cut on his forehead and his handlers refused to allow him to come out for the fifth session.

Al Sforza, 128, Boston, making his professional debut, captured the six-round curtain-raiser, defeating Bob Allard, 131¼, Lynn.

Ernie Roy, 118½, Bristol, Ct., stayed off the closing rush of Eddie de Angelis, 121¼, Revere, to win a unanimous six-round decision.

Lefty La Chance, 125½, Lisbon, Me., and Harold Harris, 126, Malden, repeated their draw bout of a few weeks back.

BRUINS TEST LEAFS' HOLD ON TOP RUNG

The Bruins and Toronto Maple Leafs, currently engaged in a bitter home stretch fight for the National League Championship, will meet in a crucial game at Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto, tonight.

The Leafs will enter the game holding first place by a full game over the Bruins who, however, have a game in hand. A victory for Toronto would give the Leafs an advantage going into the final two weeks of play, whereas a win for the Bruins would go far in giving them the edge in the stretch battle.

The Toronto team will play without its star center Syl Apps who has been sidelined for the balance of the regular season because of an injured leg. Bruins, on the other hand, will be at full strength. They have been unbeaten by Toronto in their last four starts, winning three and tying one.

Following the game, Bruins will go to Chicago to play the Black Hawks. This will be the first of a home and home series, the teams playing back in Boston on Tuesday night. Chicago is engaged with Detroit and Rangers in a vital third place fight.

In the only other game played in the National League tonight, the New York Rangers who have won their last four games and are playing their best hockey of the season, are meeting Canadiens at Montreal.

Tomorrow night Canadiens will play Americans and Rangers will open a home and home series at Detroit, the Red Wings playing back in New York Tuesday night.

Draft Board Gives Young Bee Lesson in Simple Arithmetic

By BILL GRIMES

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 1—During the off season, Bill "Whitey" Wietelmann, Bees young infielder, discovered that "ignorance of the law is no excuse."

Along with Sibby Sisti, Chet Ross, Bud Gremp and Max West, "Whitey" checked in from his winter home in Zanesville, O.

Wietelmann has not only been self-supporting since he was 16 years of age but has been the bread-winner of the family.

A few years ago when his father began to lose his eyesight, "Whitey" took over. Up to that time he hadn't made any real money in baseball. And it wasn't until last season when Casey Stengel kept him with the Bees that the youngster didn't have to stint himself in order to be in a position to care for his family.

LOST COUNT

Although he was the sole support of his home, "Whitey" insisted that his brother go to college. "Whitey" had quit high school to play pro ball but is far-seeing enough to realize the advantage his brother would obtain by a college education.

Apparently he has been so busy caring for himself and his family of late years that he lost track of one of his birthdays. According to the Bees' roster, "Whitey" was born on March 15, 1920. Therefore, as he figures it, he wouldn't be of age for two more weeks.

One day about two months ago while "Whitey" was helping around the house there came a knock at the front door. When he answered, "Whitey" recognized two members of the Zanesville police force.

"You are William Wietelmann?" asked one of Zanesville's finest.

"Yes, sir," answered Whitey.

"Well, why didn't you egister for the draft?" Was the next question put to "Whitey" by the police.

"Because I will not be 21 years of age until the 15th of next March."

"You are 21 years of age now. You were born in 1919, not 1920."

"You're wrong. I'm only 20."

After a long argument, the gendarmes piled "Whitey" into the wagon and took him to the police station. And, it was not until he was confronted with his birth certificate that "Whitey" realized that he had been shortchanging himself a year on his age.

"Whitey" is just as popular in his home town as he is in Boston and the other National League cities. So, instead of summoning him into court, "Whitey" was allowed to register and all was forgiven.

With the arrival of George Metkovich and Ralph Younker from the coast, the Bees are within two of their full quota today. Bama Rowell checked in from Citronelle, Ala., with Claude Wilborn, who hails from Virginia. Don Manno came by auto and Gene Moore and Mel Preibisch, a couple of Texans pulled in last night.

After taking another look at Pitmann-Sullivan Park, Casey Stengel decided to work out at Alamo Stadium again today. The new park is rapidly rounding into shape but it needs rolling before it will be fit.

TODAY A YEAR AGO—Henry Armstrong, welterweight champion, and Ceferino Garcia, middleweight titleholder recognized in New York and California, fought ten rounds to a draw at Los Angeles.

THREE YEARS AGO—A. H. (Mal) Elward named head football coach at Purdue, replacing Noble Kizer, who will handle athletic director's job only.

INDIANS SNUB HOLDOUT WEATHERLY

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 1 (AP)—Roy Weatherly, outfielder for the Cleveland Indians, said today that he hadn't heard from the management since he returned his contract, unsigned, three weeks ago and meanwhile, "I'm enjoying the fishing and racing."

Weatherly is aguest of Willis Hudlin, veteran Indian hurler, at Hudlin's home near here.

The Cleveland outfielder would not say what he was offered or asking.

"I'm waiting to hear from the front office," he said. "I returned my contract about three weeks ago and I haven't heard from them since."

Good News Tops In Yacht Race

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 1 (AP)—Robert W. Johnson's 65-foot yawl Good News, last year's winner; the 33-foot yawl Stormy Weather, five-time winner of the Miami-Nassau race, and the 28-foot cutter Bicho Malo II led a fleet of eight sailing yachts across the starting line of the 12th annual St. Petersburg-Havana race here at noon today in a blanket start.

With the exception of the Joseph Conrad, 100-foot schooner attached to the U. S. Maritime School in this city, the entire fleet was across the line within a minute.

Following the three leaders by only a few seconds was Dudley C. Charp's 80-foot yawl Gulf Stream.

A brisk north wind was expected to carry the fleet into the gulf before mid-afternoon.

WILLIAMS' ABSENCE UPSETS RED SOX CAMP

SARASOTA, Fla., March 1—Teddy Williams, 1940 headache to Red Sox officials and all-America earache to baseball writers, already is making the club reach for the aspirin with the opening of the 1941 season still six weeks away.

Williams is a holdout and a serious one, though thus far Sox officials won't admit it.

Manager Joe Cronin merely says that no word has been received from Williams since General Manager Eddie Collins talked with the slugging young outfielder three weeks ago tonight.

But one of Williams' friends down here claims Collins HAS been in touch with Williams since that time and that Ted is adamant in his request for a salary of $18,500.

Last year, Williams was supposed to have been paid $12,500. All year long he insisted that he be traded, said he'd never sign for 1941 for less than $18,500, told waitresses in hotels and everybody else he encountered that the Sox would pay him that sum or he wouldn't sign. And he hasn't signed.

HATES FENWAY PARK

Williams was due here yesterday, but he didn't appear. Nor did he appear this morning when Dom DiMaggio arrived from the Coast. Nor is he expected to appear in the immediate future.

Williams does not like Fenway Park with it deep right field. He's terrifically home run conscious, and would like to play in Yankee Stadium, Cleveland, St. Louis or even Detroit or Washington, where the right field fence is nearer to the plate.

Williams was a happy kid his first year up, in '39. He led the league in runs batted in with 145, arched 31 home runs and hit for the commendable average of .327. He hit in the 4 and 5 spots that year, and usually came to bat with men on bases.

He was proud of his runs-batted-in title, as well he might be, and last spring when he was placed at No. 3 in the batting order he saw the title vanishing from his grasp and started to sulk and complain shortly after the season opened.

He made baseball writers and radio men the specific target of his barbs, probably hoping they would band together and ride him out of town.

SCRIBES LENIENT

But the writers and the Sox were lenient with him, far too lenient, and Williams made things unhappy for himself and his teammates all year long.

It is a pity because the Kid is the most natural left-handed batter to come up since Ruth, and he could be the most popular player Boston ever had if he just tended to his hitting.

Williams is 22 and subject to the draft. So perhaps, if the Sox can't discipline him, Uncle Sam will.

Melrose Sextet Faces Waterville for N. E. School Title

PROVIDENCE, March 1—Having scored two impressive shutout wins in the preliminary rounds, Melrose High School, Greater Boston League champion, meets the Waterville, Me., representatives in the finals of the first annual New England interscholastic hockey tournament here tonight at the Auditorium.

The Massachusetts sextet is favored to win. Coach Harold Poole's Red Raiders looked as impressive in yesterday's 4 to 0 win over Needham, Bay State League titleholders, as they did in the first preliminary round 5 to 0 victory over Hudson, Eastern Massachusetts League champion.

By virtue of these two wins, the Red Raiders became the unofficial Eastern state and Massachusetts state wide champions.

Waterville, Me., entered the finals yesterday with a 1 to 2 win over Cranston, R. I.

'Mitch' Best Bet In IC4-A Meet

NEW YORK, March 1 (AP)—Some unheralded athlete who picks up a half point for a fifth-place tie in the high jump or who runs a fair quarter to enable his team to place in the mile relay likely will emerge as the hero of the 20th Annual Intercollegiate A.A.A.A. Indoor Track and Field Championships at Madison Square Garden tonight.

Although the entry list is packed with college stars, some who are standouts even in the big invitation meets, it's the team championship that counts in the I. C. 4-A meet. And the competition usually is so close that a point or two often means the difference between first place and second or third.

Out of 34 colleges entered, only five are considered to have enough strength to give New York University's defending champions a real battle. They are Pittsburgh, the outdoor champion; Fordham, Penn State, Pennsylvania and Princeton. Each has four or five athletes or relay teams that look like sure point winners, and if a few who don't look sure come through, there's a chance to win.

N. Y. U. is pinning its hopes on Leslie MacMitchell, who should win the mile easily if the big field doesn't hamper him too much and who also anchors a fast two-mile relay team; Dave Lawyer and Jared Fangboner on the 60-yard dash, Harold Bogrow and George Hagans in the 600, Joe Gares in the two miles and a fast mile relay quartet.

MacMitchell looks like the best bet to produce a new record, as he's done a mile on the Garden track this winter in 4:07.4, just five seconds better than the I. C. 4-A record. His chief rivals are John Drebinger of Penn, third last year, and Andy Nelding of Manhattan.

A few of the standout performers in other events include:

60 YARDS DASH — Norwood (Barney) Ewell, Penn State; Bill Carter, Pitt; Bob Jackson, Princeton; Dave Lawyer, N. Y. U.; and Al Diebolt, Colgate, who took all five places last year, and Harold Stickle, Pitt, the Central Collegiate 220-yard champion.

60 YARDS HIGH HURDLES—Ed Dugger, Tufts, who set the meet record in winning last year.

1000 YARD RUN—Ed Burrowes, Princeton, winner last year in record time of 2:13.8, and Lynn Radcliffe, Syracuse, who was third.

SHOT PUT—Al Blozis, Georgetown, defending champion and world indoor record holder, and Ed Beetem, Penn, second last year.

BROAD JUMP—Ewell, Penn State, who set the record last year, and second-place Don Blount of Dartmouth.

35-POUND WEIGHT THROW—Beetem, Penn, Norman Wilcox, Rhode Island State, and Ed Wilken, Columbia.

The 600 and 1000 Yard and two-mile races, the high jump and pole vault figure to be wide open events, as do the two relays. Fordham's 3:18.5 is the season's best mile relay so far, but N. Y. U., Georgetown, Colgate, St. John's, Holy Cross and Boston College all have bettered 3:24 this season.

AMBERS ENDS RING CAREER IN GLORY

NEW YORK, March 1 (AP)—The fistic thunder of Lew Jenkins ended Lou Ambers' gallant career with a seven-round technical knockout in Madison Square Garden, but the finish for the little laughing boy came in a blaze of glory and with the thousands roaring for him.

After six rounds of never a backward step, during which he took the Texas thumper's Sunday punches, laughed them off, and marched right in dispensing his own offensive, the little Herkimer hurricane ran into a barrage that chopped him down and forced Referee Arthur Donovan to call a halt at 2:26 of the seventh.

LAUGHED OFF PUNCHES

A few moments later, as tears came through his eyes, despite feeble attempts at a smile, he announced his retirement.

"Well, fellows," he told newspapermen. "I guess this was it. I'm all done, and I'm gong back to Herkimer. N. Y. This is my announcement that I'm through with the ring."

For six rounds, it was Ambers' fight. He laughed off every one of the famed "Sunday punches" Jenkins threw. He made the "experts" who picked him to be put to sleep in a hurry, look foolish, and he chopped away at the Texas thin man round after round.

15,402 SEE FIGHT

Then in the seventh, he was caught by a slashing left hook that sent him staggering backward into the ropes. Back he came, trying to hold on and clear his head. But it was no go. A sweeping left half pushed and half knocked him to his knees for a count of two.

Up he came, trying again. This time a barrage smashed him to the floor. Up he staggered at the count of eight, only to be met by some more of the same. He sank to his knees again, and Referee Arthur Donovan called a halt to the affair at 2:26 of the seventh round.

Tonight the speed skaters of all New England bring their season to a close with the annual New England indoor speed skating championships at the Brighton rink of the Skating Club of Boston on Soldiers Field rd.

The program of speed skating will be enlivened with exhibitions of figure skating by a score of Boston's prettiest and most talented figure skaters, including Gretchen Merrill, Roberta Jenks, Fay Kirby, Jacqueline Sawyer, Dorothy and Leslie Blazier, Sylvia Van Ness and Ruth Flint.

Miss Carmelita Landry of the Mirror Lake Skating Club, National and North American speed skating champion was advised not to defend her New England indoor title by Dr. W. B. MacAusland, head consulting orthopedic surgeon at the Burbank Hospital, Fitchburg.

Dr. MacAusland examined Miss Landry, who was injured at the national indoor meet in Washington, and described the injury as a muscle strain and advised the champion not to participate in any races for at least two weeks.

Franny Murray Would Change Grid Rules

PHILADELPHIA, March 1 (AP)—Franny Murray, whose talented toe can make a football do tricks, suggested today that any ball kicked out of bounds on the fly between the goal and 10-yard line be called a touchback.

Murray, whose brilliant coffin-corner punting helped make the University of Pennsylvania eleven one of the best in the country in 1936, asserted the new rule declaring a grounded punt within the 10-yard line a touchback "goes only half way."

Under the new rule, approved last month by the football rules committee, any kicked ball, grounded by a member of the kicking team between the goal line and 10-yard stripe, is a touchback. The ball is then put in play on the 20-yard line.

"On the surface this appears as quite a blow to the kicking game," Murray said. "However, after thinking it over, I am of the opinion that it will prove detrimental only to the unskilled kicker and a very definite asset to the control kicker who can kill a ball within the 10-yard line without the aid of downfield work by teammates.

"To my way of thinking the ruling goes only half way. I would like to have the rule makers legislate that any kicked ball crossing the sideline on the fly within this area be called a touchback. This addition would be a further aid to the offense as it would demand that the kickers bounce their kicks out of bounds in this area.

Pick Yale Sextet To Beat Harvard In New Haven Duel

NEW HAVEN, March 1—A veteran Yale six, with a string of 11 wins against three ties and the same number of losses, ruled a strong favorite to win the opening game of the annual two-out-of-three game series with Harvard here tonight.

Coach Murray Murdock of the Eli has been enjoying a rather successful season with his veteran team. He will start his veteran trio of Scotty McLennan, Jim Carton and Roger Hazen with Capt. Paul Pierson and Carl Drake at the points and Fred Kleckhefer in the nets.

HIALEAH PARK, Fla., March 1 — A capacity crowd of 30,000 frenzied turf followers saw one of the most thrilling races in Florida history here today when the $50,000-added Widener Handicap was staged over the mile and a quarter route.

And, to be brief, here's the final story of this thoroughbred epic.

The race climaxed the winter turf campaign here, though racing continues on Monday at Tropical Park.

The winner took a neat $52,000 home to his stable, one of the richest awards in the race world.

CHILLY AFTERNOON

Widener day brought the 461day meeting of the Miami Jockey Club to a colorful close. The afternoon was clear and chilly.

The track was fast for the $50,000 Widener and the accompany feature, the Hialeah Juvenile Stakes, which carried $5000 in added money. Seminole Indians in their multi-colored costumes brightened the infield.

War Beauty, Dorimar and Gino Rex were early scratches from the Widener.

The black toney colt, Bimelech, was a strong favorite. Had a royal chance to approach the $300,000 mark in earnings. He went into today's classic with $246,745 to his credit.

FANS IN OVERCOATS

The stands were filled with overcoated fans when the card opened.

High Plaid, $5.40 for two favorite under Conn McCreary, led all the way in the six-furlong initial dash. Pari-Ernest was second, while Josie's Pal was a head farther behind.

The second race resulted in a front-running triumph. Bright Victory outfooter a band of platers, returning $19.20. Bailiwick saved second money by a head from the fast closing Pick Out.

His Big Year Ahead?—Dizzy Dean does his first hard throwing of the year for the Cubs at Catalina Island. Teammates plenty rim the mound to see how Diz' pitches look. If Dean can complete the comeback started when he went to the Texas League a year back, the Cubs' flag chances will jump. This shot indicates Diz is throwing cautiously until he is sure how much work his famed right arm will stand.

Williams, Sox Peace Seen

News broke in Boston today that leads to the conclusion that Teddy Williams and the Red Sox will shortly settle their contractual differences and that theSox "problem child" will be nestled to the bosom of the Sarasota fold early next week.

While Manager Joe Cronin speculated worriedly down in Florida overTeddy's mysterious absence and General Manager Eddie Collinstriedin vain to contact the elongated clouting star from Fenway Park, the Boston hotel, wherg Williams resides during the baseball season, received a terse wire:

"Ship my trunk to Sarasota immediately."

So Teddy's trunk and all his finery which have been stored in the hotel since the close of the 1940 season are now en route to Sarasota, where, presumably, Teddy will arrive at approximately the same time.
